Rocketdyne activating Mississippi facilities

BAY ST. LOUIS, MISS. — A group of 21 highly skilled engineers and technicians from Rockwell International Corporation's Rocketdyne Division have arrived at NASA's National Space Technology Laboratories (NSTL) in Bay St. Louis, Miss., to activate facilities for testing of the Space Shuttle Main Engine.

Rocketdyne, the nation's leading producer of large liquid-fueled rocket engines, will build up its work force to approximately 175 in late 1977 at NASA's Mississippi site where the 470,000-pound-thrust main engine will undergo both sea level and altitude static testing.

First tests of the engine which Rocketdyne is producing under contract to NASA's Marshall Space Flight Center are scheduled in the spring of 1975.

The Space Shuttle Main Engine is the most advanced liquid-fueled rocket engine ever produced in this country. It is a liquid-hydrogen, liquid-oxygen-fueled engine which must be capable of being reused, having a total burn time of seven and one-half hours.

Three of the engines will be used in the orbiter stage of the Space Shuttle vehicle. They will be ignited at time of launch, together with two large solid propellant boosters, and will continue to power the vehicle into orbit after the solid boosters shut down, separate, and are lowered by parachute into the ocean for recovery.

The test stands at NSTL were originally built by NASA for testing

Saturn rocket stages used in the Apollo lunar landing program, and have been modified for this additional role in the Space Shuttle program. Rocketdyne also produced for NASA the F-1 and J-2 Saturn engines which launched all of the Apollo missions.

Rocketdyne is a major multi-industry company applying advanced technology to a wide range of products in its aerospace, automotive, consumer, electronics and industrial operations.

Lac Bleu Fire

Mixon objected to construction

by David Pierson

Pass Christian Fire Chief George Mixon said Tuesday that he had objected to the construction of the LacBleu apartments because he considered the apartment complex a potential fire trap.

"We made our feelings known that we didn't like how they (the LacBleu apartments) were being constructed," Mixon said. Mixon said, his protests were unheeded because the construction met the minimum safety specifications of HUD (Housing and Urban Development).

Last Saturday 21 Pass Christian firemen battled a pre-dawn fire for more than two hours at one unit of the LacBleu apartments in Pass Christian. All 20 persons who were inside the building at the time escaped without serious injury.

Mixon said that he objected to the construction of the LacBleu apartments because there was only one fire escape (a central stairway) and because there were no fire walls in the roof.

If there had been fire walls in the roof, he added, two of the four apartments could have been saved. People in the two upper apartments were lucky to escape, Mixon because the fire cut off escape routes from the building.

"We ended up losing two dogs," Mixon said, "but that could just as easily have been two people or even more."

Only two persons received injuries in the fire. Golman Ray, 36, a resident in the building was treated for smoke inhalation, and Doug Howard, a volunteer fireman, received slight bruises when he fell through the bottom floor while fighting the fire.

Residents in the building reported smelling smoke at midnight and again at 12:30 a.m. One resident said later there was no power in the building at 3:30 a.m. A resident reported the fire an hour later.

James Morgan, who first detected the fire, told firemen he saw flames outside (Continued on Page 12-A)

Waveland man faces murder

Jimmy Ray Fine, a 38-year-old Waveland resident, was bound over to the January session of the Hancock grand jury Monday on a charge of murder following the shooting death of his wife Sharon, Saturday.

Waveland City Judge Lucien Gex Jr. rejected a motion by defense attorney Boyce Holleman to reduce Fine's murder charge to manslaughter, saying that the state had shown probable cause for the arrest and charge.

Holleman, who entered a plea of not guilty for his client, said at the preliminary hearing that the state had failed to show motive and premeditation. He also said that J.P. Compretta, Hancock county prosecutor, presented no witnesses to the shooting.

The prosecution presented three witnesses: Charles Elliott, 13; James Ray Fine, Jr. 17, the defendant's son; and Terry Holmes, a Waveland police officer.

James Ray Fine Jr., told the court he heard his parents arguing, then heard a shot. The youth testified he turned around to find his mother on the ground and his father with a pistol in his hand.

Holmes testified that the defendant was in a highly nervous state and appeared to have been drinking. He said, though, that he did not consider him drunk.

Fine was released Monday on $7,500 bond.

Taken for a ride

Having taken advantage of the free three-day bus service in the Hancock area, a Bay-Waveland area resident steps down to do his Christmas shopping. Totals released by the MCTA show that 1,376 other persons also took advantage of the trial run that was supposed to demonstrate the convenience of riding the bus.

MCTA releases ridership results

The Mississippi Coast Transit Authority reported a total ridership of 1,377 for its three-day experimental bus service last week in Hancock County.

The MCTA experiment, which cost the two municipalities and the county $916 to be divided on a pro-rata basis, was conducted Thursday, Friday and Saturday of last week in the Bay-Waveland area. The service was extended to provide less frequent service to the county. Two runs were made daily north to the Kila area and two runs west to Clermont Harbor, Lakeshore, and Pearlington. The buses carried school children, shoppers and anyone wanting to take a free ride through the business districts of the two cities.

Col. Thomas Morris, executive director of the MCTA, evaluating the ridership figures, said. "The ridership was significant enough to show the people considered it. It does show that evidently somebody liked it."

Among those who liked the three-day experiment were children, and Col.

Morris said that they probably account for the large Saturday ridership figures in contrast with the two school day totals.

Contrary to what was reported in a local daily newspaper, Morris said he was not trying to prove "beyond all reasonable doubt" that the Hancock County area needed bus service.

"The object was to demonstrate how effective and how convenient and, in many cases, how necessary it is to have a mass transit system, i.e. a bus service."

Morris stressed he was not trying to prove anything but was trying to find out if Bay St. Louis, Waveland, and the county need a mass transit system.

Morris said buses that will service Pass Christian and Long Beach were ready for service and plans were to begin the bus service to the Long Beach-Pass Christian area at the beginning of the year. The buses could not run on a regular schedule before then, Morris said, because all of the specifics have not been completed.

Refuse city

Board declines resignation offer

Four members of the Bay St. Louis School Board politely refused an offer to submit resignations Tuesday night in an informal meeting with members of the Bay St. Louis City Council.

The resignation of one of the Bay St. Louis members of the five member Bay-Waveland School Board was sought by city officials of Bay St. Louis in an attempt to placate recent demands by the city of Waveland and mayor John Longo for more representation from that city on the board which serves the combined school district. Presently Waveland has only one member seated on the five member board.

At Monday's council meeting, Bay mayor Warren Carver and Finance Commissioner, Clarence Ladner, pledged efforts to seek the voluntary resignation of one of the Bay St. Louis appointees to the school board, but stressed that they had no power to force any resignation to equalize representation.

While no Bay St. Louis appointee accepted the voluntary request to resign to make room for Waveland, the board indicated it would discuss the matter at its next regular meeting.

State news in brief

Supports teachers

Governor Bill Waller said this week he supported the recommendations of the Quality Education Committee which called for raising teacher salaries, career education, an expanded lay Board of Education, property tax equalization, and raising the 25 mill limitation that prevents counties from providing more support for education.

Waller said he felt the state could provide money for teacher pay raises and improvements in the educational system if "we can get some help from the local level."

The Committee voted to require that raises be granted only to school districts that provide a seven percent supplement to teacher pay.

Crops down

Wet fields over much of the state prevented many farmers from completing the harvest of their crops last week. The cold weather continues to slow the growth of winter grazing.

The 1974 cotton crop is currently forecast to fall 150,000 bales less than the 1,800,000 bales produced in 1973 and 357,000 bales below that produced in 1972. An estimated 88 percent of the crop acreage has been harvested.

Other Mississippi crops are also reported down from 1973. Pecan growers are reporting a decrease of 2.0 million pounds from the Oct. 1 forecast and 16 million pounds below the 1973 crop, while soybeans as of Nov. 1 estimates are expected to be down 12,050,000 bushels (19.9 percent) from the record high of 60,500,000 bushels produced in 1973.

No slack

JACKSON - Kenneth W. Fairly, director of the Mississippi Bureau of Narcotics, stated this week that despite any movement for decriminalization of the marihuana laws, the Bureau will vigorously enforce the state drug statutes as written.

"Mississippians have sensible drug laws that are fair and just," Fairly said. "The laws are not too harsh, although some law breakers may be unhappy with them."

The 1972 legislature amended the Uniform Controlled Substances Act and provided a less severe penalty for the possession of less than an ounce.

Correction

The Sea Coast Echo incorrectly stated that Clarence H. Hall was recovering from gunshot wounds following a Waveland, Miss. shooting incident with another black male Thanksgiving day.

The article should have read that Henry Paul Jordan, 23, of 304A Camille Circle, victim of the shooting, was the one recovering from the incident.

Hall was charged with assault and battery following the shooting.

DEATHS

MRS. SHARON JEAN FINE
Mrs. Sharon Jean Fine, 36, was pronounced dead on arrival at Hancock General Hospital Saturday afternoon, December 14.

Born March 3, 1938, in Cordova, Ala., she was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl C. Short of Cordova. She was a graduate of Cordova High School and a member of Bay St. Louis First Baptist Church where she was church organist. Mrs. Fine resided in Pineville Community for two years prior to moving to Waveland three years ago.

Survivors, in addition to her parents, are her husband Jimmy Ray Fine; two daughters, Ramona and Janice Fine; and two sons, James and Allen Fine, all of Waveland.

A service was held at 3 p.m. Sunday at Riemann-Fahey Funeral Home chapel with Rev. Nathan Barber, pastor First Baptist Church, officiating.

The body was sent from Riemann-Fahey Funeral Home to Collins Funeral Home, Jasper, Ala., for services and burial in Union Chapel Cemetery, Cordova.

CLETUS JOSEPH DONNER
Cletus Joseph Donner, 79, a resident of 316 Carroll Avenue, Bay St. Louis, died at 7:40 a.m. Sunday, December 15, at Hancock General Hospital.

Born July 7, 1895, in New Orleans, Mr. Donner had resided in Bay St. Louis for 16 years.

He was a retired painter for Industrial Electric Company, New Orleans, a veteran of World War I, served with the U.S. Navy, a member of American Legion Post 139, Bay St. Louis, and Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Gussie Davis Donner, Bay St. Louis, and a sister, Mrs. Eunice Smith, Glendale, Calif.

Funeral services were held with a Requiem Mass at 11 a.m. Tuesday at Riemann-Fahey Funeral Home chapel. Interment was in Gardens of Memory Cemetery.

MRS. VICTORIA (SIS) FAYARD HENLEY

Mrs. Victoria (Sis) Fayard Henley, 74, died at 5:10 a.m. Wednesday, December 11, at Hancock General Hospital where she had been a patient for four weeks. Born March 8, 1900 in Waveland, Miss., Mrs. Henley resided there prior to moving to New Orleans 15 years ago. She was the daughter of the late Emile and Mamie Necaise Fayard.

Survivors include a daughter, Mrs. Carl Fricke Sr., Bay St. Louis; three sons, Robert Henley, Bay St. Louis; Emile Henley, Waveland; and Jerome Henley, St. Elmo, Ala.; two brothers Paul Fayard Sr., New Orleans, and John Fayard, Waveland; 18 grandchildren and 26 great-grandchildren. Mrs. Henley was preceded in death by a son Paul Henley Sr., of Waveland.

Funeral services were held at 1 p.m. Friday at Riemann-Fahey Funeral Home followed by a Requiem Mass at 1:30 p.m. at St. Clare Catholic Church with Rev. George Broussard, pastor, officiating. Interment was in Fayard Cemetery, Waveland.

Questionnaires due

Persons in Mississippi who receive Veterans Administration pension checks should remember to complete their annual income questionnaire by January 1, 1975. James R. Harrison, Jackson, VA Center Director, said today.

The January 1 deadline is a change from the customary January 15 date to relieve the bottleneck experienced in the

Reflections of the past

Echoes of a young country's first war effort abound in this June, 1918 photo of the former Knights of Columbus hall in Bay St. Louis, Miss. Food Administration posters pasted on windows of local merchants and clubs reminded citizens not to waste food needed by the Allies and to use more corn in meal planning. American flags decorated the entrance way of the old K of C hall with stalks of what appear to be bamboo plants placed outside the doorway. The photo was submitted by E. E. Lucas. Readers are encouraged to submit photos for use in Reflections. Photos will be returned unharmed at the Echo office.

Drugs and your health

by John F. Russell, M.D.

With the advertising medium geared toward creating a drug taking culture, it is difficult to fight the war against drug abuse. This country has been completely indoctrinated into believing that there is a pill for every ill, be it physical, mental, or spiritual.

It is hard to find an hour on television where some diagram or other isn't pointing out headaches, stomach aches, or any aches... how they pain one and how a pill can over overcome any problem. In fact, over $1 billion a DAY is spent by advertising companies to promote this drug taking culture.

The really sad part about all this is that if every single over-the-counter drug were taken from the shelves and no longer available, there would be no discernable difference in the health of the nation. If anything, it might improve as we all tend to overmedicate.

We reach for an aspirin at the first sign of a headache, instead of giving it a chance to dissipate without medication. If we don't fall asleep as soon as our heads hit the pillow, we've been told to reach for a sleeping potion to help induce a somnolent state. (Whatever happened to counting sheep or taking a glass of warm milk? Have we forgotten these old fashioned remedies in our modern race to nowhere?) At the first sign of a stuffed nose, why do so many reach for the nasal spray instead of relying on a vaporizer to aid breathing? There are thousands of people now actually addicted to nasal sprays.

There is a certain physiological phenomenon known as "rebound congestion" which occurs when nasal sprays are used too often or too long. The nasal passages close up faster than normal after using sprays. The clearing of the passage to aid breathing, in other words, is a very temporary situation and soon the congestion returns, greater than before until it reaches the point that the body is dependent upon the spray just for normal breathing when no cold or sinus condition is apparent.

At the first sign of a cold, a "cold tablet" is taken, and if the cold persists three days or more, most people run to a physician for antibiotics or other medication. We forget that there still is NO cure for the common cold and that with or without medication it will run its course, usually two weeks.

A friend recently returned from Switzerland and was astounded at the lack of medication one could purchase over the counter. He had developed a cold and couldn't find anything to treat it. Finally, in desperation he went to a local physician who laughed, "You, Americans - always looking for a pill. Go home and get some rest - and don't worry. It will go away in two weeks." This pill popping attitude is further borne out by the fact that United States citizens consume ten times the number of drugs as the next seven nations COMBINED.

The advertising media has brainwashed us until we are now completely drug oriented. How can we find fault with young people who pop pills? The advertising firms have indoctrinated them into believing drugs are good for us and necessary to our well-being, and we have set the examples for them to follow. Can we say, "Don't smoke pot!" as we stagger into the room, completely inebriated from a neighborhood cocktail party?

Can we say, "It is wrong to use pills to change your mood," when we tranquilize ourselves into non-depression?

Can we condemn others if we are also abusing substances?

Let us set the example: medicate only when absolutely necessary and wash our brains free of the propaganda of advertising. Only then will we be able to prevent drug abuse.

Accreditation reaffirmed

POPLARVILLE... Pearl River Junior College has been notified that accreditation has been reaffirmed for the next ten years by the Southern Association of Schools and Colleges.

The announcement was made at the annual meeting of the Association held recently in Dallas, Texas.

President M.R. White also received a letter of congratulation from the SASC stating the college had been reaffirmed without reservation.

Enoch Seal Jr., academic dean and head of the self study committees, attended the Dallas convention and was very pleased with the Association's comments concerning PRC's standing. Each ten years all schools and colleges belonging to the Southern Association must subscribe to a self study evaluation. Schools and colleges within the SASC district that extends from Maryland to Texas are also visited by an Associational committee for a period of three to four days.

Schools accredited by the Southern Association can transfer their credits without question to any school or

In person St. Nick

The Echo has been informed by sources close to the old white-bearded one himself, that Santa Claus will make a special appearance to children in Spanish Acres next Monday night.

Saint Nick can be found in Andre Court Circle at 8 p.m. Monday night listening to all Christmas requests from boys and girls who have been good this year.

LB Chamber elects officers

Dr. Joe Holloway, dean of USM's Gulf Park campus was elected president of the Long Beach chamber of Commerce Tuesday by acclamation of the chamber directors. R. Mac Riemann of Riemann Funeral Homes was voted vice-president, and Donald Presley of South Central Bell was named secretary treasurer for 1975. They will assume their positions at a banquet in January.

The new directors for the chamber will include Jim Baker, Carl Lacy, Cooper Andrews, and Mrs. Gladys Budd. They will join the present directors' Jim McGehee, O.K. Lion, Bob Richards, and Jim Johnson to form the 1975 board of directors. Cecil Dubuisson will remain as the chamber's executive director.

At the December breakfast meeting, the directors discussed moving the chamber to the small craft harbor. It was estimated that the total cost of the move would be around $650, provided the city supplies the labor. The yearly cost for leasing their present location at the corner of Jeff Davis and Highway 90 is $600 a year. The yearly leasing rate at the small craft harbor would be $1.

It was reported at the meeting that Sidney Kidd of the Highway Department's traffic control came down from Jackson to talk about placing Long Beach turnoff signs on I-10. The two recommended turnoffs are at Beattline Road and Canal Road. The signs will cost the city $230, and contributions from city organizations are being accepted.

Trash collection

The Bay St. Louis Sanitation Department has announced its schedule of garbage and trash pickup for the Christmas and New Year's holidays.

Regular pickup of garbage will take place on Monday and Tuesday, Dec. 23 and 24. Wednesday, Christmas Day, there will be no trash pickup and Thursday, December 26, there will be no garbage pickup.

Garbage pickups are scheduled Friday and Saturday, Dec. 27 and 28. It is pointed out that the regular Thursday pickup will take place Friday the 27th and the Friday pickup will be held Saturday, Dec. 28.

The week of Dec. 30 through January 3 will be business as usual except for New Year's day when no trash pickup will be made.

All residents are urged to clip this article from the paper and keep it for handy reference.

Colling's Corner

By E.S. Colling

Not long ago, the Rev. Dr. Soandso appeared on television and in response to a question by the m.c., admitted that Christmas was a time when good-will should be shared by everybody with everybody. It reminded us of Cal Coolidge's famous statement that the pastor of church had boldly stated that he was against sin.

We would guess that "most everybody" in Mississippi felt the same way, both about Christmas and sin. Even us. At Christmas time our natural Scrooge-like disposition softens and mellows until a child could have his way with us. Of course, we don't expect this attitude to last beyond New Year's Eve, and even in this "Joy-to-the-World" period we are making a little list of miscreants who never would be missed when our disposition returns to normal.

First on the list --- but no! We shall allow him to enjoy human companionship and warmth by his Yule log for two more weeks, and his Christmas dinner, like that of the convicted murderer, shall be unmarred by visions of the gallows.

And, like the Rev. Dr. Soandso, we urge you to forgive --- but not forget. Say to your particular bete noir, "God rest you, merry gentleman..." for Jesus Christ, our Savior, was born on Christmas Day." This expression of good-will, accompanied by a mental reservation and a dirty look, will satisfy both parties and make for a Very Merry Yule.

It really is kind of ridiculous, when you get right down to it, this custom of bringing joy to the world --- for one day only! We know a man --- and there must be a million more like him --- who should rightly be drawn and quartered for his meanness to his fellow men for 364 days of the year who celebrates Christmas as though he had made it himself. He sends out holiday cards to all the folks he has been cheating all year, passes out nickles to all the children in the block, puts lights on a tree in his yard, and has all his neighbors in for drinks and a big Christmas celebration. The next day he forecloses on their mortgages. Another man gives things away to nearly everybody in town every day of the year except on Christmas, when he hasn't enough money left to buy an ample Christmas dinner for his own family, so they hate him. To find out who is the more blessed, read the Scriptures.

So, in balancing your personal account for the year, put down all the good things you've done and next to them, note the bad and the mean, ungrateful acts you've committed. Then, for peace of mind, tear them all up and start over again for 1975.

"BAH! HUMBUG!"

County Agent's Notes

John W. Smith, County Agent

CARE OF SEEDLINGS

The care that you give your tree seedlings before and during planting influences the chance of survival.

Pick up your seedlings immediately from the delivery point and put them in the shade to prevent drying. It is best not to stack the bundles of seedlings, but if they must be stacked, use spacers between bundles to prevent overheating. The spacers will allow air to circulate around the bundles.

If necessary to keep the seedlings for more than four or five days before planting, water the bundles to keep roots moist. After watering, elevate the bundles two to four inches to allow excess water to drain. You can keep seedlings in the bundles for two to three weeks if you give them proper care. It is a good idea to turn the bundles over every four or five days or when they are watered.

When planting the seedlings, keep the roots moist. Carry them in a bucket or planting bag. Remove only one seedling at a time from the bag or bucket. Tests have shown that survival of seedlings is reduced with even short exposures of roots to air, wind and sun.

MID-WINTER PASTURE MANAGEMENT

1. Complete the grazing of all frosted grass this month as digestibility is down to around 25 percent by this time. A protein and energy supplement is necessary to make efficient use of frosted grass.

2. Cold weather has delayed the growth of late October and November planted ryegrass. Grazing too quickly will reduce the winter forage production. Calves may creep feed on your grass with minimum damage. This will allow a delay in grazing cows until grass is ready.

3. Control graze to get maximum from grass. As little as one hour per day or 3 hours every other day will stretch grazing. Alternating herds grazing a field will give more uniform consumption of forage due to the change in grazing pattern of different animals.

4. Young clover must be protected from grazing to give production in late February and early March. Where clover is planted with ryegrass, do not allow grass to shade it out.

5. Make arrangements now for nitrogen needed for top dressing grazing acreage. Ryegrass not fertilized with nitrogen at planting must have 45-60 lbs. of actual nitrogen to give any winter production.

6. When applying nitrogen fertilizer, avoid spreading directly into water filled pot holes or close to ponds as high nitrates in water often contributes to nitrate poisoning.

7. Grass Tetany occurs mostly in mature cows with young calves that are grazing lush grass pastures. Low levels of magnesium in the animal's blood cause tetany. Feeding high magnesium mineral supplement is a good preventative measure (a good mixture is 40 pounds magnesium oxide, 20 lbs. plain salt, 20 lbs. trace mineral salt and 20 pounds steamed bone meal). Feed this mixture as the only source of salt.

Washington Report

By: Rep. Trent Lott

If you think the 93rd Congress has given you some cheap thrills over the last two years, just wait until you meet the 94th Congress.

The next two years could make the Lyndon Johnson Great Society look like kindergarten stuff," one of my House colleagues told his constituents recently. And, judging from the makeup of the new Congress, he could be right.

After all, when you give that group of liberals more power than they already have, you're really asking for trouble.

Let's take a brief look at the numbers

Home Makers Notes

By Norine Barnes, Hancock County Home Economist

Consumer concerns related to meat and poultry are responsible for change in USDA regulations. One change that has been under study for many months is product dating.

Product dating is not a new practice, but only a few companies have practiced open dating on a volunteer basis. Open product dating makes it possible for the consumer to read the dates on labels in the same way that processors and retailers have previously been able to read them. Since some processors used the date a product was packed and others used the date the products usefulness expired, the ability to read dates only added to consumer confusion. The new amendment to federal meat and poultry regulations was designed to make product dating less confusing.

Calendar dates on meat and poultry products after September 8 must be identified as either a packing date, a sell-by date, or a use-before date. This action will eliminate some confusion for shoppers, but it will not assure freshness at purchase time. In many instances, temperatures at which products are stored and transported have more to do with the freshness of that product than a few days or hours of storage time. If the store where you shop is not careful about refrigeration of products, they may not be fresh even as long as the date on the package states.

game in the 94th Congress. When we convene in January, Democrats will control the House by more than a two-thirds majority (291-144) and the Senate by a smaller but still substantial margin (62-38).

The group of liberal Democrats lost no time flexing their muscle in the House. This element literally ran away with a reform program in the recent reorganization sessions of the Democratic Caucus.

As a sign of things to come, they rudely unseated House Doorkeeper William "Fishbait" Miller of Pascagoula. Fishbait has introduced dignitaries with the words "Mistah Speekah" for as long as most people can remember.

Now, thanks to the "new look" Democrats, Fishbait will be forced to retire.

Another disturbing target of the reformers is the makeup of the House committees, which deal with money. The Ways and Means Committee and the Appropriations Committee will take on a drastically different character in January.

The liberals are quick to point out that the two powerful committees, which handle most of the legislation pertinent to the current economic crisis, have for years been chaired by conservatives. The time has come, they say, for a change in leadership.

So, out goes Ways and Means Chairman Wilbur Mills of Arkansas, who has more problems than he can handle at the moment. In steps Congressman Al Ullman of Oregon, a House veteran and an established liberal.

Then, to make sure that the right people have the power to make committee assignments, the Democratic Caucus retrieved that power from Ways and Means and gave it to the Steering and Policy Committee. They now will make committee assignments for members of their party.

Looking at the makeup from another angle, only four House chairmen retired. Their successors will come from a similar age group.

"King Caucus" has been moving in other areas, such as increasing the number of days a bill may be put on the Suspension Calendar, thereby limiting debate. They are also pushing tax reform and welfare reform, neither of which is designed to help the working American.

All in all, as you can see, it should be an interesting two years.

A Public Letter to:

Mississippi Game & Fish Commission
Mississippi State Legislature
Jackson, Mississippi

Gentlemen:

I would like to point out to you an inequity which exists regarding the individual rights of sportsmen in the State of Mississippi. All sportsmen pay quite heavily for the right to hunt and fish within the state. For example, at this moment I have in my pocket a combination hunting and fishing license ($6.50), a deer and turkey permit ($3.00), an archery license ($3.00), a primitive firearm permit ($3.00), and a special deer tag ($6.00), or a total of $21.50 in Mississippi licenses plus a Federal duck stamp ($5.00). Added to this direct outlay is an additional assessment in the form of state taxes on gasoline, equipment, and ammunition expended. The state, on the other hand has provided some twenty game management areas situated throughout the state to perpetuate public hunting, a management and restocking program and enforcement officers.

Ah first glance, this appears a happy situation. However, the sportsman in the state are very unhappy over being denied use of the very lands they are supporting. Most of us work at least five days per week and many of us work at least part of Saturday to support our families. For many of us, Sunday is the only day we have to hunt and fish. A quick glance at the game regulations will show that with few exceptions none of the State Wildlife Management Areas permit Sunday hunting. On the only day in the week upon which most sportsmen are able to use public lands, we are by state law denied their use. I realize that for some there are religious feelings against hunting on the sabbath. For those, I respect their feelings and do not ask that they participate. However, for the majority of us who are not restrained by religion from Sunday outdoor activities, I beg that the state reexamine its policy on Sunday use of State Public Recreational Areas. I believe the Mississippi sportsman should be granted the same consideration that is given to sportsmen in our adjoining states.

Sincerely,

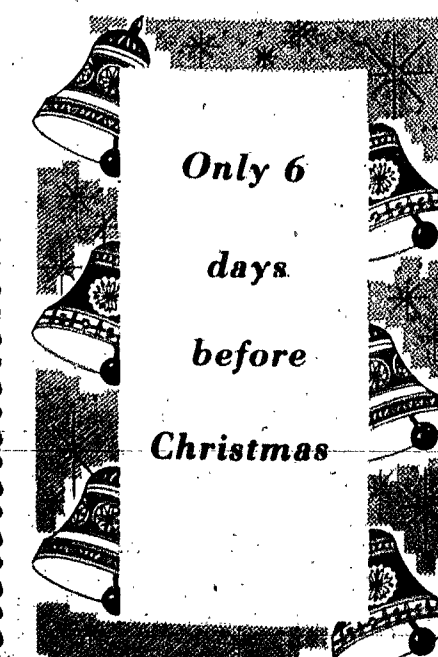

PAUL L. VEGAS

MRS. MARIA VILLALOBOS (third from right), native of Guatemala and resident of Bay St. Louis for 22 years is shown with friends Friday at the home of Mrs. Nunez C. Pilet where she was given a surprise celebration following the occasion of her naturalization as a United States citizen Dec. 10.

Bay resident honored at citizenship party

Mrs. Maria Cristina Villalobos, a native of Guatemala and a resident of Bay St. Louis was feted Friday in the home of Mrs. Nunez C. Pilet in recognition of her recent naturalization as a citizen of the United States. Citizenship papers were finalized December 10 in the Federal Court Building in Biloxi with Judge Dan Russell officiating. Mrs. Alden L. Mauffray served as her sponsor. She was one of 59 persons to become an American citizen on that date and in that court.

Although Mrs. Villalobos has lived in Bay St. Louis for twenty-two years, she has had little opportunity to speak or hear English conversations for she lives alone and her work with Our Lady of the Gulf School is done for the most part in solitude.

For this reason a close friend, Mrs. Fred Van Peski, a bilingual, arranged a small English Spanish study group which meets every Friday in Mrs. Pilet's home.

When Mrs. Villalobos arrived last Friday for class she was surprised that a group had assembled to welcome her as an American citizen. Dressed in the native costume of women of Republica de Guatemala, the hostess presented Mrs. Villalobos to the waiting guests.

Pinning a corsage on the honoree, Mrs. Robert Bird of Long Beach, regent of the Gulf Coast Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution, gave a booklet published by her organization and designed to assist those in the process of becoming citizens. A letter delivered by Bay St. Louis Mayor Warren Carver and addressed to Mrs. Villalobos was read aloud by Mrs. Mauffray. The mayor extended greetings and quoted Webster's "I am an American."

Meaningful gifts including a sand-painted decanter made by Mrs. Elma Nolan of Pass Christian; an elephant with raised trunk (said to be an omen of good luck), and a miniature planting in a gaily painted Mexican bowl were received by Mrs. Villalobos who thanked the group when she regained composure.

"I must have addresses, maybe I can thank better on paper".

Following the formalities the group gathered around the refreshment table which was overlaid with a handwoven Guatemalan cloth. Four tapers in Guatemalan carved candle sticks were lit, signifying a warm welcome to Sisters Engracia Alvarado, Adriana Solis, Martha Mejia, and S. Maricela, all of Morelia, State of Michoacan, Mexico and presently serving at Our Lady of the Gulf School.

Mrs. Bird presided at the punch service and Mrs. Mauffray served sherry. Lifting her glass Mrs. Thomas Wicker of Pearlinton proposed a toast: "Congratulaciones a nuestra amiga que ahora esta una ciudadana de los Estados Unidos! Tenemos muchos enhorabuena en su aceso. Salud y pesetas." Followed by a toast proposed by Mrs. Van Peski "To your health and wealth and time to enjoy it".

The sisters sang a group of songs in Spanish including "Friends", and best loved Mexican Christmas carols. American carols were sung in response during which time Mrs. Villalobos crossed the room and joined singing in English.

A tour of the home followed, where many articles made in Guatemala and Mexico were on display. Molas from Q — Does the Veterans Administration provide care for veterans who are unable to make it on their own because of age or general disability?

A — Yes, the agency maintains 18 domiciliaries for this purpose. Any VA office will assist in filing application for this benefit.

Q — Is it true, as I hear, that the Veterans Administration touches the lives of nearly half the U. S. population?

A — Some 47.1 per cent of the population are potentially eligible for the agency's benefits and services either directly as veterans or indirectly as members of veterans' families.

Q — What are some of the advantages of a Veterans Administration GI home loan?

A — The agency guarantees 60 per cent up to a maximum of $12,500 of such loans, no down payment is required usually, VA appraises the house to determine its reasonable value and there usually is a long repayment period resulting in lower monthly payments.

Q — I was discharged about 25 years ago after three years of military service. Is it too late to apply for a GI home loan from the Veterans Administration?

A — No. There has been no deadline for applying for this benefit which is available to veterans of World War II and later periods since enactment of the Veterans Housing Act of 1970.

Soybean research grants buy 'best brainpower'

The Mississippi Soybean Promotion Board has provided $12,750 to help finance soybean research through the American Soybean Association (ASA) Research Foundation, according to James M. Ferguson, Calhoun City, president of the Mississippi board.

The money, made available through Mississippi's half-cent per acre soybean check-off, will be invested by the foundation in research of broad regional and national significance, Ferguson said. He emphasized that the ASA uses the funds to purchase the "best brainpower available" and that none of the money is spent on building research facilities.

"The ASA Research Foundation has developed an excellent procedure for getting the best possible buy for our research money," Ferguson said. He explained that the foundation requests proposals on specific projects from leading research institutions and then has the proposals screened and rated by a committee of top soybean scientists. The top five projects are submitted to the foundation board for approval.

To be approved for funding, a project must be potentially beneficial to all soybean farmers and must not duplicate work in progress elsewhere nor be a substitute for other sources of funding, he added.

As an example of the way in which the foundation's procedure works, Ferguson noted that letters were sent in September to 43 research institutions requesting proposals for research in the area of soybean root growth and development. In response to the letter, the foundation has received a total of 34 proposals from 20 institutions, he said, and these proposals will now go to the evaluation committee for rating.

Decanters Make Impressive Gifts

Here's a selection of beautiful gift decanters you can present with pride to anyone on your special gift list: 1. to r., a ceramic, full color turkey hen decanter filled with the very elegant Wild Turkey 101-proof Kentucky Bourbon; a globe-holed glass decanter with a cork base and plastic heat shield grip in case you use it for hot drinks; Metaxa 5-Star in its lovely etched glass decanter; (bottom) a simple, classic liqueur decanter; (top) a Danish Kluk-Kluk decanter that gurgles endearingly when you pour it; and Metaxa Grande Fine in a colorfully painted white glass decanter made in Greece. Plain glass decanters, Rosenthal Studiohaus, N.Y.

Through the centuries wine, not made nor handled as carefully as today, was full of sediment and needed straining and repouring into decanters. Today only the oldest wines need this treatment, but if you do have a beautiful decanter you want to use, it is very permissible to transfer the wine to it carefully yet also display the empty wine bottle on the table so your guests may note the label.

A decanter is almost a necessity at a fancy dinner if you're serving a jug wine, even a good imported French Languedoc like Bonifis, since the decanter is more deluxe with your silver and china than a half-gallon glass jug.

Until recently many people also poured their liquor into fine cutglass decanters as a status symbol. Today the best spirits are often sold in attractive but identifiable decanters of their own, especially around holiday time, because displaying a top brand name is as status-y as a metal-tagged decanter.

101-proof Wild Turkey Kentucky Bourbon, for instance, comes in an unmistakable four-color ceramic bottle in the shape of a wild turkey hen and her chick, number four in a collector's item series. A famous Greek brandy-liqueur, Metaxa 5 Star, can be had in a charming oval-shaped flask, or for the very special Metaxa Grande Fine a stunning white decanter decorated with the colorful flowers of the Aegean.

Filled or unfilled the decanter makes a grand gift that says "Enjoy, enjoy." They can be found at wine and spirits shops or fine department stores.

People once believed that a black dog and puppies was bad luck to look at.

PUMPKIN TIP

The pumpkin is nutritious, as well as fun and decorative, report home economists with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service. A one-half cup serving supplies your vitamin A requirement for one day. It also contains protein, carbohydrates and small amounts of B vitamins and minerals.

At one time it was believed that pumpkins would reveal a robber to his victim.

Making your own Yule gifts

Is the approaching Christmas season giving you the inflation fantods when you think of all the gifts you must buy?

There's a way out. Make some of the Yule presents yourself and have a lot of fun at the same time. Browse through any library and you'll find dozens of books on make-it-yourself items, with hundreds of ideas for Christmas gifts for the kids and adults alike.

For instance, girls, no matter what their ages, seem to enjoy frivolous gifts, things they might never buy for themselves, like a gold umbrella cover or a glitter fan.

Of course practical presents, like place mats, are more useful and last longer.

A fancy make-it-yourself apron is a practical gift for Mom or Sis or most anybody who keeps house. As an unexpected bonus, why not drop a new eyeshadow or lipstick into the apron pocket to give the present a little pizzazz?

If you want to add a touch of fragrance, tuck a few sprigs of lemon verbena or sweet grass inside the package. Or use a drop of cologne or a pinch of sachet instead.

Whatever you do, make your packages pretty. Wrap them in pale blue or pink tissue paper. And instead of ribbon, try a half yard of tulle, cut into 6-inch strips and tied with a big frou-frou bow.

For Dear Old Dad or Brother, or even a husband or boy friend, a bowler's hand towel is a nice Christmas touch, and it's easy to make. Of course, the recipient should be a bowler or a golfer or a tennis player.

All you need is iron-on tape, a red terry towel (16 by 30 inches) and some scraps of red cloth. The library has plenty of books instructing you how to proceed.

A moneybag doorstep is easy to make and mighty handy. Most of the materials you'll already have at home. Or a goldbrick doorstep is even easier. Just paint a brick gold or cover it with gold adhesive. Or gild a horseshoe and glue on Good Luck with felt letters.

For the imaginative gift-maker, add-a-stone sculpture is rewarding and fun all at once. You can make such whimsical figures as turtles, seagulls, rabbits, penguins, or even a nesting bird, starting with a collection of stones and shells and a tube of household cement.

These are not really sculptures, because you don't carve, model or mold them. Yet the results are very much like sculpture.

All you need are stones and shells, twigs and sticks, pine cones, string, household cement, clear shellac and sandpaper. You figure out what you want to make and find the appropriate rocks, shells, etc. All it takes is a little imagination and time. The results are attractive and conversation-piece gifts for kids or grownups to enhance the den or bedroom.

For children who want to make gifts for their classmates or friends, paper plate puppets are a good answer. All you need are paper plates (two to a puppet), a stapler, poster paints and crayons, embroidery needle, scraps of fabric and yarn, molded cardboard egg carton, cleansing tissues and white paste.

Staple the plates together, paste on cardboard ears and make hair of yarn loops. You can make fox, clown, owl or lion puppets with a little imagination. When it's all finished, use your hand to make the puppet bow to the audience.

(All these ideas can be turned into gifts if your public library has McCall's Golden Do-It Book and 101 Glamorous Gifts To Make, by Miriam Morrison Peake. Most libraries have them.)

Cloth toys for the moppets also make delightful gifts at Christmas time. There are hundreds of possibilities in Charlene Davis Roth's "The Art of Making Cloth Toys," available in most public libraries.

A popular gift, says Ms. Roth, is the Owl and the Pussy-Cat, who, if you remember Edward Lear's poem, "went to sea in a beautiful pea-green boat, etc."

Indeed, the Owl and the Pussy-Cat are an excellent pair to begin this venture into cloth toymaking. They are fairly easy to make, yet during their production you'll encounter, in simplified versions, most of the techniques necessary for making more complicated toys.

When the cloth cat is finished, it will measure eight inches in height. The owl will be 10 inches high. A crisp, printed cotton fabric is used for both doll bodies. Their features, arms and the anchor applique on the boat are felt. The boat is corduroy. This set of dolls can be made entirely from scraps of fabric. But you'll have to go to the library for Ms. Roth's book to get all the instructions.

Drug program termed success

The Commission on Drug Counseling's special program at North Bay Elementary Dec. 11 was termed a success by William Seymour, drug education specialist for the Bay-Waveland school district. Special guest speakers at the program included Hancock Sheriff Department narcotics officer Ronnie Peterson; Youth Court referee Michael Haas; St. Stanislaus High School principal Brother Lee Barker; and assistant director of the Gulf Coast Mental Health Center Dr. Roger Fox. Peterson and Haas discussed the legal implications for youthful offenders caught in possession of illegal drugs with Brother Barker and Dr. Fox directing attention to adolescent problems and values.

A sample of an increasingly popular method of marijuana detection among law enforcement agencies was demonstrated by the Ocean Springs Police Department who loaned one of the department's specially trained police dogs. The dogs are trained specifically to detect the presence of marijuana and the effectiveness of this method of detection was demonstrated effectively. Peterson burned a small sample of the marijuana plant to acquaint the audience with the unusual smell of the drug. Refreshments were served by the Bay-Waveland Altrusa Club.

President Ford:

Cuts budget to fight inflation

President Ford has sent Congress a plan for fiscal 1975 budget cuts which will loom even larger in subsequent years and ultimately have a tremendous impact on inflation.

That is the significance of the $4.6 billion in budget reductions recommended by the President to take effect before this fiscal year runs out.

President Ford is hopeful that the Congress will cooperate. He notes that the Senate voted heavily last June to hold fiscal 1975 federal spending to $295 billion; and the House voted last month for a $300 billion ceiling.

The 1975 budget totalled $305.4 billion at the start of the fiscal year. But it now appears that interest on Federal borrowings will run $1.5 billion higher than anticipated last June. Meanwhile Congress has voted some cuts in spending.

Migues, Vick arraigned

Leroy Migues and Ilene Vick were arraigned in U.S. District Court December 11 before District Judge Walter Nixon and pleaded not guilty to one-count indictments charging them with the armed robbery of a Pass Christian branch bank. Both sides are now given 30 days to file a motion.

Mrs. Vick's court-appointed attorney, Roy Strickland, said that Mrs. Vick had been "a willing and cooperative witness" in the case against Migues and that she had helped to apprehend him. Mrs. Vick was subsequently released on a $5,000 bond.

Migues, a Pass Christian resident who was last employed as a dock worker at the Port of Gulfport, remains in the custody of U. S. marshals.

Migues is charged with the armed robbery of the Gulf National Bank in Pass Christian last Sept. 19 in which $26,000 was taken. Mrs. Vick allegedly aided Migues in the getaway. The two were apprehended October 4 in El Paso without incident.

'Not too late' to give

Hancock Countians may still send in their contributions to the 1974 Christmas Seal Campaign being conducted by the Hancock County chapter of the Mississippi Lung Association, according to chapter chairman Mrs. O. Duke.

"We want everyone to know it's not too late to make that contribution," Mrs. Duke said.

"Every dollar received will provide more 'ammunition' for county and statewide programs of emphysema, tuberculosis and other respiratory disease control during the coming year," she added.

Special projects supported by the annual Christmas Seal Campaign include the purchase of X-ray film and drugs for indigent tuberculosis patients, support of a professor of respiratory disease at the University of Mississippi School of Medicine, sponsorship of a social worker at the Miss. State Sanatorium, and provisions of medical education-research scholarships and fellowships.

"Every volunteer is eagerly counting on our Hancock County citizens who have not yet responded to their Christmas Seal letter to make a contribution during the closing weeks of this year's campaign," Mrs. Duke added, "in order that our projects and activities can be continued and expanded in 1975."

Missionary plans program

The First Missionary Baptist Church, corner Sycamore and Third Street in Bay St. Louis, will present its annual pre-Christmas program Sunday at 6 p.m. The program is under the direction of Alfriza Acker.

Services will also be held Christmas morning at 8:30. The public is invited.

Cookbooks to Romances, Sci-Fi to Puzzles, Sports to Nature, and more, are the topics featured in 20 gift-boxed sets of paperback books created by Bantam Books for the holiday season. Priced from $2.70 to $13.50, these boxed-sets offer something of interest to every member of the family.

Bantam offers gift-boxed sets for holidays

Cooking, romance, sports, adventure, science fiction, nature, the martial arts, crossword puzzles and fiction are among the subjects covered by 20 different gift-boxed sets of paperback books created by Bantam Books for the holiday season.

Also, a recommended treat for the adventurous is THE GREAT ESCAPE (256pp., $7.00), a large-format paperback that catalogs delights and pleasures for the mind and body, edited and designed by Min S. Yee and Donald K. Wright. Published in June, it's been called "a gorgeous gallimaufry of a book" Saturday Review-World, "a wonderfully imaginative and fresh cornucopia of words and pictures" (San Francisco Examiner and Chronicle), and a "bedside browser par excellence" (Sunday Oklahoman Showcase).

Eight new boxed sets were created this year, including: a six-volume STORIES FOR BOYS ($6.40) collection, a six-volume STORIES FOR GIRLS ($5.40) set of novels, an ALL COLOR NATURE LIBRARY (four-volumes, $5.80), five Bruce Tegner titles in BRUCE TEGNER: THE MARTIAL ARTS (6.25), a new cookbook set, SIMPLE AND SPLENDID COOKING (six volumes, $7.40), THE ROMANTIC WORLD OF BARBARA CARTLAND (eight volumes, $7.60), eight STAR TREK adventures ($7.60), and CROSSWORD PUZZLES FOR EVERYONE (six volumes, $4.50).

Also new this year at Bantam, is a two-volume set of the 1974 GUINNESS BOOK OF WORLD RECORDS and THE GUINNESS GAME BOOK ($2.50).

Other paperbacks collected in gift boxes include the sets: THE NOVELS OF ALEXANDER SOLZHENITSYN (four volumes, $6.50), EIGHT

GREAT WESTERNS BY LOUIS L'AMOUR ($7.60), EMILIE LORING'S WORLD OF ROMANCE (eight volumes, $7.60), THE FANTASTIC ADVENTURES OF DOC SAVAGE (eight volumes, $6.00) and THE WORLD OF HERMANN HESSE (six volumes, $9.00).

Perennial favorites also available this year are: SIX GREAT INTERNATIONAL COOKBOOKS ($7.00), THE BETTER HOMES AND GARDENS COOKBOOK BOXED SET (five volumes, $5.70), EYEWITNESS HISTORY OF WORLD WAR II (four volumes, $5.00), THE HISTORY OF THE ENGLISH SPEAKING PEOPLES (four volumes, $9.00), THE SECOND WORLD WAR (six volumes, $13.50), and SELECTED WORKS OF KHALIL GIBRAN (seven volumes, $7.85).

Firm advances are being made today in multiple sclerosis research, and many scientists believe we are very close to finding the cause of this serious neurological disease. Evidence is mounting to suggest that the basic causative factor may be a virus.

Certify early for GI benefits

Certify early to get the best service on GI Bill checks is the advice offered to the veterans not presently enrolled in college but who intend to attend during the 1975 spring term by Merlyn J. Cook, Veterans Administration Regional Office Assistant Director.

Cook said the Veterans Administration can have the veteran's first GI Bill check waiting for him at his school at the start of the spring term if he completes his certification early.

Veterans can contact the campus VA "Vet Rep" or the VA Regional Office in Jackson.

Most of the 10,200 veterans who attended college during the 1974 fall term are already certified to receive their benefits as they continue into the spring term.

VA's main concern is the veteran starting college under the GI Bill for the first time this spring or those who attended previously and are starting again in January. They must be certified for school benefits if they want an advance GI Bill check when school starts next semester.

Rutherford to chair Club

Hancock County Chancery Court Clerk John Rutherford has been appointed 1975 Scout Century Club President, according to Norton Haas, Cypress District Finance Chairman.

The Century Club is dedicated to raising the necessary funds to operate and extend Scouting in the New Orleans Area Council, Boy Scouts.

Rutherford, a long time veteran Scouter and community leader, stated that Hancock County Scouts would raise over $7,500 toward the Scout Council's $658,000 operating budget this year.

Approximately one third of the Council funds comes from the United Way in the eleven Louisiana parishes, and Hancock County. The remainder is raised from Scouts and friends of Scouting in the annual Sustaining Membership Enrollment.

Hancock County has always led the way in the total Scout program, Rutherford told Century Club members.

Rutherford was recently honored at the Cypress District Banquet held in Slidell.

May the Christmas Season be a memorable and joyous time filled with blessings and love for all.

An Invitation To Help - RSVP

And a good time was had by all. It is perhaps the understatement of the year, as the 210 guests who attended the RSVP Christmas Party at the Waveland American Legion Hall last Thursday just couldn't have been better rewarded for their part of the work in the program, entertained by such talented people, and fed such a feast of goodies.

All this didn't just happen overnight of course, as plans and work for the party began as far back as last August when about eight RSVP volunteers started work on the invitations and place cards.

Mrs. Myrtle Faulkner was in charge of making paper weight favors for each place at the table. VIV Wilma Miller gathered together many odds and ends to use for decorations which turned out to be such eye catchers that the Legion asked to keep the decorations for their own New Year's Eve party.

Food was prepared by RSVP director Mrs. Mildred Fisher and assistant director Mrs. Theresa James.

The program began with community singing and the Hall rang with Christmas carols. The Dixie Bells and Breau followed with special musical numbers, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Mildred Means.

The advisory committee was introduced and awards given to volunteers—gold ribbons for those who had been with the program less than six months, RSVP pins for those who had been with it more than six months, and certificates for those who had worked as volunteers for over a year.

The chorus of the "Spend-the-Day" Center entertained with several hymns under the direction of Mrs. Gena Demars, accompanied by Pop Mulling at the piano.

After everyone was served, soloist Sherry Herrington sang "Sweet Little Jesus Boy" and "A Satisfied Mind" accompanied by Mr. Alfriza Acker. Both are members of the First Missionary Baptist Church. Mrs. Jannelle McLaine, accompanied by Mrs. Mary Howard, sang a medley from the "Sound of Music" followed by "No Golden Carriage."

Afterwards Santa Claus distributed gifts from a tremendous box of gaily wrapped packages.

Pip Johnson and his boys provided dance music to end the party.

With New Years just around the corner, why not make a resolution to join the happy VIVs who work with the Retired Senior Volunteer Program and make 1975 the year you discover it really is "more blessed to give than receive."

Dale stresses controls

Public Service Commissioner John L. Dale Tuesday sharply criticized attempts by Interior Secretary Rogers Morton and FPC Chairman John Nassikas to end price control regulation of interstate natural gas.

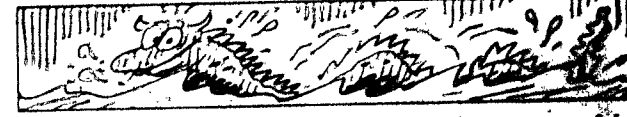

The two federal officials have publicly urged an end to gas price regulation as a means of stimulating additional production of natural gas to meet current demands. "The only thing this will stimulate is additional profits to the gas companies at the expense of the consumer," Dale said in Jackson. "The major gas and oil companies are already earning incredible profits, while the customer who pays the bill is burdened almost beyond his ability to pay. The whole argument of the federal power officials is absurd," Dale said.

"What good will it do us to have plenty of gas if the price is so high we can't afford to buy it," he added.

Dale said he sincerely hoped Congress would take a long look at the situation before allowing the gas and oil companies to set their own price on this very necessary commodity.

Collapsed floor

Doug Howard, a volunteer fireman, fell about three feet when the bottom floor of this apartment collapsed under him while fighting Saturday's fire at the LacBleu Apartments in Pass Christian. Howard refused medical treatment. Three other firemen also fell through the floor while fighting the fire.

(Photos by David Pierson)

Burned remains

The stove (lower left corner) in one of the LacBleu fire victims' apartments was blown out of the kitchen and landed in the dining room. The resident of this apartment claimed to have lost about $20,000 in belongings in the Saturday morning fire.

Fire . . .

his window and discovered the back of his apartment ablaze. Morgan said he evacuated his family immediately down the apartment's lone stairwell and then began notifying other families.

The James Farrell family, which lived in one of the lower apartments, said that by the time they knew of the fire their escape down the stairwell was cut off by the flames. Farrell said his family used a window to get out of the building, and recalled receiving electrical shocks while going out the window.

Mixon said that there was no reason to call for help from neighboring fire departments because his department was making maximum use of the available resources.

The residents whose homes were almost totally destroyed by the fire praised the efforts of the fire department saying "We want them to know that we thought they did a very fine job."

The victims of the fire also expressed appreciation for the donations they have received from the community and charity organizations such as the Salvation Army and the Red Cross. Clothing, furniture, and other contributions are being accepted at the fire station.

Three of the four families have moved into other apartments in the 120 unit complex. "One family chose to move because a large enough unit was not available," said a spokesman for the LacBleu management.

Tuesday morning James Farrell walked through his fire-ravaged home, pointing out what could possibly be salvaged. He came upon a book that was lying on top of the destroyed television set. The title of the book was "The Merriment of Christmas." He pointed at it and tried to laugh.

We're alive and well in Diamondhead, and as the year draws to a close we can see that bigger and better things are in the offering...the yacht club completed. Tennis world well on its way and the super recreational center that will outline the rest. Our new, shiny fire engine will be an asset, and so many new homes in the making. We have such a hard working Architectural Advisor's Committee that help us in keeping with our beautiful surroundings and our hat's are off to Joe Salvatore, Ken Saucer, Carl Greaves, Wally Little, and Paul Milam.

Having Mr. Holcomb Hector, Vice-President of Diamondhead working right here on the Project does prove a tremendous asset.

So good to see Larry and Coral Strasburger back at Lake Villa following Larry's surgery. Not only have we missed them but the gold dining room had dimmed without Larry's beautiful display of orchids...such a dear to share this avid hobby with us!

Over the week end two families of Molakai Villa enjoyed the warm arrival of their Moms from the cold North. Here to join Sal and Penny Peraino for the holidays is Sal's Mother, Mrs. Martha Peraino who resides in Lodi, N. J. Their good neighbors Roy and Angel Demarest are entertaining Mrs. Martha Manine, Angel's Mom from Philadelphia...and both visitors are really getting acquainted with each other.

The Ladies Volunteer Fire Auxiliary met recently and regretfully accepted President Isabel Lund's resignation. Due to her husband's recent death Isabel did not feel she could complete her tenure in office. Mrs. Harry Devine has moved up to fill the office as President and Mrs. Dot Jordan has accepted the Vice-President's chair. The main topic of this meeting was a plan to purchase fire fighting equipment for our area...a job that this group pursues most zealously!

The golf course has just been overflowing with humanity these beautiful days, but no matter what the weather one can always see Jack and Jane Baumgartner; Paul and Betty Cutler and Joe Salvatore playing...all hail from New Orleans but spend every possible moment here.

The Diamondhead Garden Club met at the home of President Billie Sorensen for a most entertaining Christmas Party on December 4th. A plant exchange took place wherein each member related the history of her plant. Mrs. Malcolm Mundy spoke about the potential extinction of birds, rabbits, etc. that build nests close to the ground because of the marauder, the Armadillo.

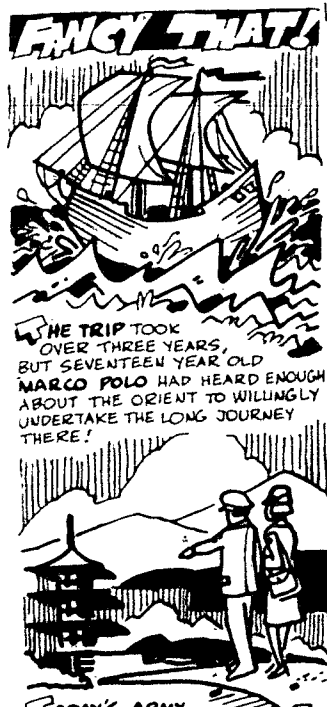

Some highly entertaining games followed under the guidance of Mrs. Virginia Criss, and these proved to be a great work up to the delicious luncheon that followed.

The Christmas garden of the month plaque went to Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Carriker. Mr. & Mrs. Louis Gatipon of Holiday Village provided a lovely Christmas "Pot Luck" party complete with hilarious games and amusing gifts and there we saw Carl and Phyllis Greaves, Richard and Virginia Criss, Lee Lewko and her sister from Biloxi, Luther and Cecil Grice, Virginia and Walter Hall, Tom and Susan Berry, Jim and Mary May, and George Sorensen and his wife. This party was in keeping with the Village's policy of getting to know your neighbor and has proved to be most successful.

The beautifully decorated Country Club proved to be the magic place Wednesday night where the small fry met the man of their dreams (at least at this time!)...dear Santa Claus. So much whispering and giggling just to let Santa know how good all are. Under the know how of Bill Russell, Club Manager, and the added efforts of Connie Maggio the children and their parents enjoyed delicious refreshments and endearing memories.

May the peace and joy of Christmas be with you now and through the New Year!

Display contest sponsored by Garden club

Bay-Waveland Garden Club met Thursday, December 12, at the Garden Center with Mrs. Lelyn W. Nybo, president, presiding.

Mrs. Gordon Gleim, High School Garden Clubs chairman, announced plans had been made by the Tiger Lilies (Bay High School Garden Club) for a Christmas flower show December 17.

During the afternoon members exchanged potted plants around a festive live Christmas tree. Each member also brought a plant to be given to Senior Citizens as part of a garden therapy project under the direction of Mrs. C. R. Beyer.

Mrs. Dan M. Russell, civic development chairman, outlined plans for planting native trees in honor of past Garden Club presidents as part of the group's beautification and conservation program.

A Christmas display contest is being sponsored by the group and three awards will be made in this annual contest, a commercial award and two for a home display in Bay St. Louis and Waveland.

In cooperation with the energy conservation programs displays will be judged during the day and lighting will not be taken into consideration.

Anyone wishing to enter the contest can contact Mrs. J.D. Brameyer at 467-6403. Displays will be judged December 21.

New members, Mrs. Robert Autenreith and Mrs. Oliver Baldwin and a guest, Daisy Sudduth, were welcomed.

The Christmas theme was used in decorating the Center. Hostesses were Mesdames William Hilliker, L.H. Ott, R.H. Meilleur, Hunter Kimbrough, Margaret Lamb, Frank Lagarde, Walter Russo, John Schott, A.G. Dantagnan and Gordon Gleim.

MRS. JOHN G. McDONNELL
nee Germaine Madeline Giani

McDonnell-Giani vows exchanged

Miss Germaine Madeline Giani, daughter of Mrs. Virgil H. Giani and the late Capt. John Gale McDonnell recently in an early afternoon ceremony at St. Paul's Catholic Church in Pass Christian, Mr. McDonnell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. McDonnell of Jackson, Miss.

The marriage was celebrated by the Rev. John O'Brien, pastor of St. Paul's and the Rev. H. McDonald Morse, Jr., rector of Trinity Episcopal Church in Pass Christian. The candelabra lit altar was bordered by four topiary trees interspersed with orange blossoms.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Mario Peter Giani, wore an Empire-styled candlelight gown of pale blue featuring a V-neckline and long sleeves edged with tiny organza ruffles and seed pearls. Her cathedral length veil of illusion was held in place by a delicate band of Venetian lace and she carried an old-fashioned bouquet of tea roses, baby's breath and ivy.

Mrs. Frank D.D'Artoni of Metairie, La. was her sister's matron of honor and the other bridesmaids were Mrs. John Mason of Tuscaloosa, Ala., sister of the bride, and Miss Charlene Marant. They wore Empire-styled floor length gowns of dusty blue and held nosegays of blue-tinted carnations baby's breath and German statice.

Mr. Edward McDonnell served his son as best man and Robert Merritt McDonnell, Edward Marlin McDonnell, brothers of the bridegroom, Edward L. Mixon and Frank D. D'Artoni were his other attendants. Mendelssohn music and Fr. Abt's Ave Maria were rendered at the organ by Ogden Lafaye.

At the reception immediately following the ceremony a receiving line formed, with the bride's mother receiving guests in a floor length gown of pale blue peau de soie, Empire-styled and featuring a Victorian neckline which was simply adorned with a Venetian necklace. Matching earrings completed the ensemble. The groom's mother wore a floor length gown accented with ruffles at the V-neckline and wrists of the same material. A narrow satin band held her waist.

They both wore corsages of cymbidium orchids. Also receiving were the maternal grandmothers, Mrs. Herminia Pizzati Bacuzzi of New Orleans, La., and Mrs. R.M. Reese of Tupelo, Miss., both in long gowns of pink and flowered print material.

For her traveling outfit, the bride chose an emerald green double-knit suit accented with red piping. With it she wore red shoes and red accessories. They will be at home in Oxford, Miss. where they will pursue further studies at the University of Mississippi.

Prenuptial parties were a bridal shower given by Mrs. Hal R. Yockey at her Sherman Ave. home and a dinner hosted by the parents of the groom on the eve of the wedding.

Blue Jeans club present awards

Blue Jeans Garden Club held its annual Christmas party Monday afternoon at Wheel Inn Restaurant.

Guests of the group were Mesdames David Caillier, Bernice Scafidi, Elva Buran and Anna Mae Rapoli.

Each member and guest was presented a crocheted corsage and a handmade napkin.

During the brief business session conducted by Mrs. Joseph Servat, Club president, annual awards were presented to members who had accumulated the most points for their plant and flower arrangement entries in the various categories during the year.

Mrs. J. C. Goodloe, with the most points, received the Golden Iris award; Mrs. A. M. Thomas and Mrs. K. T. Breland tied for second place and Mrs. Frank Corcoran and Mrs. Vivian Moffett tied for third place. Mrs. Servat appointed Mrs. Ben Muttter chairman of Community Club awards with Mrs. J. C. Goodloe as co-chairman.

The next regular meeting was scheduled for Monday, January 20, 1975, at the home of Mrs. William Richardson.

Civitan donate to special ed

Mrs. Betty D'Aquila, director of special education in the Long Beach school system, was presented a check for $100 Monday by the Long Beach Civitan Club at its regular meeting to aid in the purchase of supplies in the school's special ed program.

Ray Canada, Civitan president, told Mrs. D'Aquila the $100 was for the program's "discretionary fund".

"This is not as much as we would like to give at this time," Canada said, "but we promise to add more to it when all the Christmas fruit cakes have been sold."

Canada appointed Civitan Harry Kaletsch and Tom Meighan to work with Mrs. D'Aquila in an attempt to secure some of the needed supplies and equipment from the H.E.W. "surplus storage" in New Orleans.

Mrs. D'Aquila explained that the Long Beach Special Ed program is funded in parts by the federal government, the state of Mississippi and the Long Beach Separate School District.

"We need extra help in securing all types of materials and equipment," Mrs. D'Aquila told the Civitans. The Civitans were told Long Beach presently has 70 children in four classes with learning disabilities, 50 mentally handicapped children in four classes, and one instructor who specializes in speech and hearing therapy.

In other business, Civitans T.D. Lee, chairman, Sam Maxwell, and Bill Norris were appointed to the nominating committee to secure new officers for 1975-76. Leroy Secret and Carl Collums were appointed to serve with Max Edgington on the membership committee. James Stevens, vice president of the Mississippi Coast Historical & Genealogical Society, was announced as the principal speaker at the club's next meeting Jan. 6.

Busy fingers hold luncheon

Busy Finger's Extension Homemakers Club held its Christmas luncheon at 11 a.m. Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Doris Vogt, Waveland. Mrs. Norine Barnes, Hancock County Home Economist, was a guest of the group.

Members attending were Mesdames Ethel Breaux, Barbara Davis, Gladys Discon, Dolores Farve, Myrtle Hurlbut, Alice Masson, Leona Roberts, Delphine Taconi and

Doris Vogt. It was announced a special leadership training on cake decorating will be held at 9:30 a.m. January 7 at the Agriculture Center.

The next regular meeting was scheduled for 10 a.m. January 21 at the Agricultural Center at which time Mrs. Taconi will give a demonstration on making hot plates with rug yarn.

Photographers urged to photograph Mississippi

The deadline for entries in the "Mississippi is Photogenic" contest is nearing. All entries in the Mississippi Agricultural and Industrial Board-sponsored photography contest must be postmarked no later than midnight Tuesday, December 31, 1974.

Participants, both amateur or professional, may submit up to four entries in each of three categories: black and white, color prints and color slides or transparencies. Entrants may choose their subject matter, but emphasis should be placed on scenic attractions in the state. All photos must be taken in Mississippi.

Engraved silver bowls will be awarded to winners in the professional and non-professional classifications in the three categories and for best of show. Certificates of merit will also be given to those selected to accompany winners in a traveling exhibition following the formal presentation. Three nationally-known judges will select the winners.

Prizes will be awarded at a banquet on Saturday, January 25, following a day-long photography seminar. Ralph Morris, who for many years was a chief photographer for "Life" magazine, will be keynote speaker for the banquet.

The seminar will be held at the Holiday Inn North on I-55, Jackson, and will feature outstanding speakers on photography from Nikon, Canon, and the Meisel Photochrome Corporation.

Entry forms, may be obtained from the Public Affairs Department, Mississippi A & I Board, Post Office Box 849, Jackson, MS 39205.

Muhammad Ali, Billie Jean King, Tom Seaver, Hank Aaron, Brooks Robinson and Lee Trevino are all helping in the fight against multiple sclerosis.

Miss Serio wed to Robert Gavagnie

St. Clare Catholic Church, Waveland, Miss., was the setting for the November 23 wedding of Linda Ann Serio, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Serio Jr., Waveland, and Robert Louis Gavagnie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willard L. Gavagnie, Bay St. Louis.

Rev. George Broussard, pastor, performed the double ring ceremony before an altar decorated with arrangements of pink and white gladiolas flanked by palms.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white sate-peau trimmed in Val Daisy Venice lace. The bodice featured a V-neckline and traditional bridal sleeves. The skirt, trimmed with rows of lace, flowed into a cathedral length train. Her veil of illusion fell from a Camelot head piece. The bride carried a cascade bouquet of white roses, cymbidium orchids, baby's breath and ivy.

Miss Suzanne Stevens, Waveland, attended the bride as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Mary Lou Lott, Poplarville, Miss., sister of the groom, and Miss Susan Serio, Waveland, sister of the bride.

The maid of honor wore a maroon floral print crepe floor length dress with white lace inserts in the Elizabethan style sleeves, neckline and bodice. The bridesmaids wore floor length maroon crepe dresses. They carried cascade bouquets of pink cymbidium orchids and English ivy.

William Carbonette, Bay St. Louis, was best man. Groomsman and ushers were Donald Gavagnie, Bay St. Louis, brother of the groom, Mark Lott, Poplarville, Miss., brother-in-law of the groom, Thomas Serio, Waveland, brother of the bride, and John Genin, Bay St. Louis.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at Six Acres Restaurant. The bride's table was centered with a pink and white tiered cake. Arrangements of pink and white gladiolas completed the decorations.

The mother of the bride received guests wearing a blue knit floor length gown with matching jacket and accessories. A white cymbidium orchid corsage completed her ensemble.

The mother of the groom chose a red, white and blue floral print floor length dress with matching accessories and a white orchid corsage.

For traveling the bride wore a pink flowered shirt waist dress with a pink cymbidium orchid corsage.

The couple will reside at 206 Chartres Street, Bay St. Louis.

Club holds flower show

The annual Tiger Lily Garden Club Flower Show was held Tuesday in the audiovisual room at Bay High. Debbie Netto, a junior at Bay High, received the overall tri-color ribbon for her arrangement consisting of live ferns.

First place winners for table arrangements were Trina Sumrall, Susan Carlson, and Debbie Netto.

Legion sponsors dance

American Legion Post 77 is sponsoring a New Year's Eve dance at its legion home on Coleman Avenue in Waveland. All visiting legionnaires and their guests are invited.

For the $12 admission, each couple will be provided with hats, noise makers, set ups, and breakfast. Music will be provided by the Brothers.

Tree seedlings available to landowners

Limited quantities of several tree seedling species are still available to Mississippi landowners from State Forestry Commission nurseries according to a December 4 report from the office of State Forester Bill Gaddis.

Still available for purchase and delivery during this winter's planting season are: Black Locust (25 thousand), Sweetgum (23 thousand), Cottonwood cuttings (25 thousand), Virginia Pine (A popular species for growing Christmas trees - 35 thousand seedlings still available), and a few Scotch Pine (Also enjoying some popularity for Christmas tree growing in North Mississippi).

The seedlings may be bought in bundles of 250 for $4.25 per bundle, delivered; or in bundles of one thousand, delivered, for $17.00 a thousand. Cottonwood cuttings cost slightly more than other species - $4.50 per bundle of 250 or $18.00 a thousand, delivered.

Applications for purchase of the seedlings are available from any Forestry Commission office.

A Commission spokesman said that the small supply of seedlings still available will not last long. "If anyone is interested in ordering some for planting between now and the end of March they had better hurry to the local County Forester's office," he said.

The Forestry Commission produced more than 60 million tree seedlings for planting by Mississippi landowners this year.

Holiday shower fetes Ms. Allen

Miss Janet Marie Allen, bride-elect of Michael James Ryan, was honored with a surprise miscellaneous bridal shower December 12 hosted by Misses Susan and Theresa Ryan at their Union Street home.

A Christmas theme was used in the decorations and gifts were presented the honoree by Santa Claus.

American bald eagles benefit from "slurpees"

The National Wildlife Federation announced this week that it will turn over to the Federal government, on December 19 more than 1,000 acres of land in South Dakota and Nebraska to be used as a sanctuary for the nation's symbolic bird, the American bald eagle.

Secretary of the Interior Rogers C. B. Morton will accept the deed to the land, located along the Missouri River near Pickstown, S.D., at a ceremony in the Federation's Washington headquarters and immediately designate it as a National Wildlife Refuge.

The transfer will climax a unique "Save a Living Thing" fund-raising campaign undertaken just four months ago by the nonprofit National Wildlife Federation and the 7-Eleven Food Stores Division of the Southland Corporation, of Dallas, Tex. Southland donated one cent from the sale of each "Slurpee" drink in its 5,000 convenience food stores to a fund for acquisition of the land, which serves as a winter home for approximately 15 per cent of the bald eagles remaining in the "lower 48" states.

The food stores, in 41 states, sold more than 20 million of the crushed-ice drinks in special containers depicting 60 different mammals, birds, reptiles and fish now on the world "endangered species" list. Each plastic "collector's cup" carried a brief description of the animal depicted and a report on its current status.

"The campaign not only raised enough money to secure a permanent sanctuary for our national symbol, but it alerted millions of Americans to the dangers of pesticides, stream pollution, the drainage of wetlands, and other threats to our wildlife," said Thomas L. Kimball, executive vice president of the National Wildlife Federation.

In addition to the more than $200,000 raised by the sale of soft drinks, other funds were raised by cash contributions made at 7-Eleven stores and checks mailed directly to the National Wildlife Federation.

With the money NWE purchased 818.7 acres of land outright and a conservation easement covering another 305 acres. Approximately 19 acres of the acquired land lies across the state line in Nebraska; all of the remainder is in South Dakota.

The Missouri River bottomland to be designated as a National Wildlife Refuge, about two miles below the Fort Randall Dam, has served as a winter home for as many as 300 bald eagles in recent years. Tall cottonwood trees provide roosting areas and the river provides fish and other feed. Water rushing downstream from the dam keeps the river from freezing, even in sub-zero weather, at that point.

The site also supports a wide variety of other wildlife, including whitetail deer, bobwhite quail, wild turkey, fox, coyote, opossum, raccoon, and an occasional bobcat.

The northern bald eagle, though not officially an endangered species, has dwindled in numbers to where there are now only about 2,000 in the contiguous states (Alaska excluded). A familiar figure on the Presidential seal, the U.S. dollar, and many other official documents, it was adopted as the national symbol by the Continental Congress in 1782.

Christmas Gifts for $10 or Less

Has this year's Christmas season found you wrapped up in a flurry of gift-buying?

Relax. If the current economic crunch has flattened your wallet, maybe it's time to think small. A wealth of quality gifts for $10 or less is available this year for family members, relatives and friends.

Consider these Christmas gift suggestions:

Purse and pocket accessories make excellent stocking-stuffers. Spec cases, change and clutch purses and purse organizers—come in a variety of colors and designs to match each pocket-book. Choose from a wide assortment of blue or strawberry gingham, denim, straw, two-tone or Holly Hobbie stitchery accessories.

Or select an attractive key chain that doubles as a mini-flashlight as a practical gift that will eliminate night-time key-hole fumbling. For the multi-key holder, choose a four-hook key case that also includes a mini-flashlight. Both items include long-lasting batteries.

USEFUL GIFTS

A classic clip wallet, a six-hook key case, a business-card holder or a pocket secretary may come in handy for the men in your life. These Country Village Accessories are available in such rich hues as autumn brown, diablo or surrey maple.

A colorful ribbon may be the only packaging needed to wrap a "Dirty Dog" figurine. These jaunty conversation pieces for dens and offices make attractive under-the-tree surprises. Each has a humorous caption.

A Creative Stitchery Kit or a Burlap Yarn Kit from Leisure Life, are in the $5 range, and are crafty gifts for the hobbyist. For the budding artist, consider such Skylight Studio items as oil painting kits, paints, drawing rags, cleansers and detergents. Don't forget to keep your vacuum cleaner with its attachments handy for quick clean-ups. Post a stain-removal chart in the area. You can get one by sending your name, address and 10 cents in stamps or coins to: The Eureka Stain Guide, 1201 East Bell Street, Dept. FS, Bloomington, Ill. 61701.

Slash away tippy tables, cherished heirlooms and fragile furlens, poster boards or sketching pads. Beginners would appreciate an amateur starter set or a how-to technique book.

You Owe It to Yourself. Make Time to Make a Radiant You!

Try taking a leisurely soak in the bathtub every day, letting the lukewarm water relax your muscles. Return to your mirror, freshening your makeup and hair-comb when necessary.

With firm fingertip massaging to smooth away tension lines and feelings, follow this routine for your soapsuds facial.

- Start at the collarbone and lather all over your neck.
- Next, lather from your chin to your ears and around the mouth, massaging in circular motions.
- Follow up the sides of your face, around the nose, and up to the temples.

CANDLES PLEASE

Candles are appealing gifts for hard-to-please teens or candle buffs of all ages. A wide choice of shapes, sizes, colors and scents is available this year from Guild House. A bayberry scented glitter-glass Holly Hobbie candle is ideal both for Christmas and year-round. A bayberry candle, by the way, is said to foretell good luck for the coming year if it burns brightly at Christmas.

Put something new in the soap dish: Scented decal soap bars with old-fashioned designs and verses are available in lemon, strawberry, honey almond and lime scents and colors. A special finish prevents the design from washing off after repeated use.

For the Ms. moppet set select something from the new Sweet Thoughts grooming aids. These colorfully packaged bath sets, powders, colognes, lotions and grooming aids are attractively priced as well—for under $4.

Bath and beauty aids for the junior miss in every household have been introduced for Christmas giving this year. Attractively packaged—and priced—the collection includes lotions, colognes, soaps, bath accessories and hair grooming aids. And many come with their own gift tags.

FOR THE HOME

For the entertaining home-maker, consider porcelain and earthenware items in the Designer's Collection. A salt and pepper set, a candy dish, mugs or a dinnerbell are decorative and functional additions to any table. All are priced at under $10.

Children will enjoy showing off their own set of tableware. nishings for all-around safety. Tape or tie trailing lamp cords to walls or table legs to keep them from tripping people.

Another survival kit, assembled for guests, might be placed in the bathroom. Stock a basket or a decorative box with safety pins, a miniature sewing kit, band-aids, spot remover, small combs and aspirin. Your guests will appreciate your thoughtfulness if an emergency arises!

Juvenile Dish Sets include a porcelain dish, cup and bowl in four youthful "table talk" designs.

Novelty jewelry, wall and desk calendars, stationery, pill boxes and paper party goods also make excellent useful under-$10 gifts.

While you're shopping, don't forget to choose some greeting cards. A make-your-own series of Creative Needlepoint Cards is currently popular with craft-minded people. Or consider giving someone a set of all-occasion greeting cards, paper gift wrap and ribbons, along with a Ziggy Glue Dispenser to put it all together.

Enjoy your Christmas gift-buying spree this year by thinking small.

Schedule Fun Into Your Party

Holidays are meant to be fun. Yet sometimes we can't see the forest for the trees—Christmas trees waiting to be trimmed and hall trees jammed with coats of unexpected guests.

Keep the hassle to a minimum this year by putting first things first. If giving a party is high on your list of priorities, give yourself plenty of time to plan and get ready. Party food is important, but fun is the goal, so plan food that will contribute to the good time, not tie you down unnecessarily.

Home economists for Union Carbide Corporation's Food Science Institute recommend these Liver Pate Tarts because they can be made in advance.

And the pate is simpler than recipes that begin by sauteing livers; then mashing. In this recipe, liverwurst is used right from the package, with no loss in flavor, and a big gain in work savings and economy.

The "crust" for the tarts is really bread that has been pressed into miniature baking cups and baked, sparing you the job of making pie crust. Just fill the cooled shells with a savory mixture of mashed liverwurst, sour cream, sherry and seasonings. Slide them in the refrigerator, and come serving time, they'll be waiting for you.

New emphasis on astronomy at Jackson State

JACKSON STATE - The department of General Science and Physics at Jackson State University is placing a new emphasis on astronomy.

The department presently offers only two courses in astronomy for general science and physics majors but is planning to add four new courses for the 1975-76 school year as electives for these majors and for the general public. Dr. William C. Straka, assistant professor of General Science and Physics, indicates that the new courses will include General Astronomy, Life In The Universe, Cosmology, and Astrophotography.

In support of these and other astronomy courses to be offered in the near future, the University Observatory is being equipped with a 14-inch Schmidt-Cassegrain telescope to supplement its two 8-inch telescopes, 8-inch Schmidt camera, 6-inch reflector, 5-inch refractor, two 5-inch refractors, and several smaller instruments. One of the largest telescopes in the State, the 14-inch with its auxiliary instruments - will have full photographic and electronic ability. In response to a renewed interest in astronomy by students and the general public, a weekly "Open Night" at the observatory was initiated in the fall. From 7:00 to 8:30 each clear Tuesday night, the observatory is open for use by students, faculty, and the public to view the moon, star clusters, nebulae, and the various planets. Use of the observatory is open to persons interested in taking a course in astronomy and persons interested in astronomy as a hobby. Dr. Charlie J. Smith, head of the department of General Science and Physics, indicates that the department plans to utilize the vast research, teaching, and publication background of Dr. Straka to upgrade course offerings in astronomy to "Minor" status initially and to "Major" and department status in the foreseeable future. Prior to joining the Jackson State faculty last September, Dr. Straka - who teaches astronomy and directs the observatory - was assistant professor of Astronomy and supervisor of Judson Colt Memorial Observatory at Boston University (1971-74); research assistant at UCLA (1963-66); teaching assistant at UCLA (1963-64); guide at Griffith Observatory and Planetarium (1963); and research assistant to Dr. Otto Struve at the California Institute of Technology in the summer of 1962. From 1966 to 1970, Dr. Straka was in astronomy at Long Beach (California) City College.

THE FIRST STEPS OF OPERATION AWARE

The President says that inflation is Domestic Enemy Number One. And here's how A & P is going to help you fight it. We're starting a new consumer program called Operation Aware. Because we're aware of the problems every consumer is facing today. These are the first steps we're taking to fight them.

1. AN EARLY WARNING SYSTEM ON PRICE INCREASES: THE AWARE LIST.

Every week we will voluntarily post a list of price increases such as those received from manufacturers a full seven days before we actually change our price. That gives you one week to purchase at the old price. And if we run out of the item before the date of the price change, we'll give you a raincheck at the old price. You'll also find "Be Aware" tags on many frequently purchased items, with the shelf tags on many frequently purchased items, with the day of the price increase right on the tag. Of course, the Aware List won't include perishables like meat, eggs or fresh fruit and vegetables, where markets fluctuate daily; items controlled by law; or advertised specials. The Aware List can help you save.

2. A PRICE FREEZE ON A&P PRIVATE LABELS.

A & P voluntarily has put a ceiling on over 1000 A & P Products. (Smaller stores may not regularly stock all items, but a list is available in all stores.) That means prices will go no higher at least until the end of the year, on many products that you use every day... bread, cheese, pasta, coffee, non-fat dry milk, frozen potatoes, rice, tuna fish, fruit cocktail, frozen dinners and canned peas and corn. Advertised specials below the freeze prices will still be offered. We've put the freeze on our private labels because they represent the best values in our stores. And we'll hold down the prices, even if our ingredient costs go up.

3. OUR 13 POINT CONSUMER PROTECTION POLICY.

It's our continuing commitment to making you an Aware shopper by reminding you of what every A & P store owes you and by informing you of ways to get the most for your money. Look for the signs going up inside A & P stores spelling out all the protection A & P gives you:

1. Guaranteed Satisfaction
2. Exceptional Value
3. Low Price With Absolutely No Compromise in Quality
4. Rain Check-Product Availability

An instructor guides a new happy skater on the floor of a modern roller skating rink.

Roller Skating Is Fun Exercise

Holiday fun and healthy exercise for the entire family is just around the corner at your nearby roller skating rink.

Roller skating is a unique type of recreation that the family can enjoy as a group, regardless of age. A recent survey disclosed that 38.5% of America's nearly 20,000,000 roller skaters are 18 years of age and older; 31.5% are in the 12-17 age bracket and 30% are under 12 years of age.

No unusual athletic ability is required and each member of the family can enjoy skating at his own pace. Even the small fry pick up the knack quickly. Well-lighted and modern—even plush—rinks abound in thousands of communities throughout the country. Regular "Family Nights" provide an excellent opportunity for all members of the family group to skate together for fun and exercise.

State Farm person to person health insurance

It can make you feel better.

At State Farm, person to person health insurance reviews that old-fashioned idea of personal attention. Yet it helps protect against today's soaring medical costs. It can even make sure you get money to help meet those extra hospital expenses. Or an income if you're disabled. Let me show you how.

A Christmas calorie count can be terribly depressing

By JUNE GALLAGHER
Copley News Service

"If holidays are time for cheer, it's only fair to warn you, dear, 'The vision' we'll see from the rear."

"Is something which you ought to fear?"

So begins our little treatise on "How to Survive the Holidays" and not end up a size larger, unable to wear your new dress for New Year's Eve, and feeling glummer than Scrooge.

To help you towards this end, we shall list all the calorie horrors you used to indulge in before you read this fun-speller story.

In fact, it would be a very good idea to put the article down, go out and lose three pounds by not eating for two days, and then pick it up and resume reading.

Ready? You now have a three-pound hedge so-to-speak (rather it is a cutting down of the hedge) for the 12 Days of Christmas.

First, you must realize that a "mere" 150 extra calories a day, say one glass of milk, will add 10 pounds to your girth in 32 weeks, or 16 pounds in one year. Thus a serving of plum pudding at 340 calories (a chocolate bar has about 250 calories) or its equivalent daily would easily bring up your weight about 2 1/2 or 3 pounds in three weeks.

Let's say there is a lot of Christmas cheer in your life. Then let's count the calories in the cheer.

One ounce of vodka is 82 calories and rum, 72; the same amount of scotch is 74; Tequila, 72; whiskey, sour-mash, 90. A Manhattan cocktail has 125 calories; a Martini, 75; and an Old-Fashioned, 150. It follows that the higher the proof, the more calories in alcoholic beverages.

A glass of wine (3 1/2 ounces) is even higher in calories: Champagne, 95 calories; Dubonnet, 140; Muscatel, 182; Cream Sherry, 175; Rhine wine, 95; mulled wine, 345 per cup.

Beer has 100 calories per 8 ounces and brandied egg nog should be ashamed. It has 455 calories per cup.

Having cheese or fruit with your beverages? The cheese tray offers this: One ounce of Cheddar is 115 calories; cream cheese, 106; blue, 105; Swiss, 105; Parmesan, 130; and American Processed, 105. Add apple slices at 75 per apple or oranges at 70 calories each.

Trip over to the pretzel dish and count 60 calories per large one; to the potato chips, and 10 equals 110; to the popcorn, and one cup is 65 calories. You may look foolish counting it all out as you munch, though.

Moving on to the appetizers we offer better news. If your hostess has shrimp (only, no sauce), count 110 calories; a small glass of tomato juice, 50; a cottage dip, 15 per tablespoon.

If soup is served, the count could be ominous. Cream of celery soup is 189 calories a bowl; cheese soup (just hope it isn't cheese soup) is 329. Creamy consommé could save the day. It has only 75 calories. But I bet you didn't know that soup increases the appetite and starts the gastric juices flowing.

Now comes the dinner (of course, you have already had a full day's amount of calories). There is nothing like a traditional holiday dinner, certainly not calorie-wise, anyway.

Candied yams are 295 calories per 6 ounces; cranberry sauce, is 368 per cup; roast goose, 265 per 4 ounces and roast turkey, 215; with stuffing, add 236.

Are you having oyster bisque? Add 171 calories. Or cheesy broiled tomatoes? Add 209. Mushrooms Romanoff? They are 100. (I vote for the mushrooms.) Should you meet a plain cook, be cheered. Green beans count only 25 calories, peas are 55, carrots 45 and potatoes 95 — all without butter, of course.

Salads are kind to the calculator of calories, so fill up on them. A mixed green salad is 85 calories with dressing; flavored gelatin is 80 without fruit; cole slaw is a kindly 70; cucumbers with yogurt, an ecstatic 19; and chicken salad, a horrendous 325 calories.

Now for dessert. Do you dare? Some noble souls can shake their heads sideways, not up and down, at this point, but the rest of us must make big decisions like "Pie or ice cream — or both?"

Mince pie, you say? Add 365 calories per one-seventh of a pie. Pumpkin pie is 275 plus 45 to 55 calories per tablespoon of freshly whipped cream and a "mere" 10 calories per tablespoon of whipped cream (that is progress).

Fruitcake is 115 calories per ounce; gingerbread is 157 for two ounces and cookies are 75 each. Puddings and custards rate 190 for chocolate pudding; 188 for custard; 411 for chocolate custard; and 415 for fruit custard.

The cruellest blow of all comes with the nut dish after the meal. Roasted peanuts are 840 calories per cup; walnuts are 790.

As they say, everything that's fun is either immoral or fattening.

The United States may go down in history as the country that perfected the Christmas joke.

Germans first decorated a Christmas tree. The citizens of Asia Minor can boast that they first hosted St. Nicholas (now known as Santa Claus).

But what other country can lay claim to the Christmas witticisms of Bob Hope and George Jessel?

Hope, of course, is the 70-year-old entertainer who used to be Bing Crosby's sidekick and has since earned enough money from his quick-witted humor to rival an Arab oil merchant.

Every Christmas for years, starting back in World War II, Hope entertained the troops abroad with cracks like this one, which he uttered before appreciative Vietnam GIs (and probably World War II dogfights as well):

"Most things here are exportable. Some are even curable."

Hope, whose nose has been variously described as looking like a mangled Tootsie Roll and a miniature ski slope, has always managed to keep his G.I. humor up-to-date.

During the psychedelic 60's, he elicited belly-laughs from Vietnam soldiers with a few marijuana jokes:

"I saw a guy watching '12 O'Clock High' and he didn't even have a TV set."

"I saw a guy with a lampshade on his head — said he was waiting for someone to turn him on."

Hope's Christmas jokes made history not only because they were funny but because they were often uttered under fire — like the time during World War II when Eisenhower told him that things had been quiet for a few days.

The next day, during a show, a bombardment began.

"This is what you call quiet?" Hope cracked.

George Jessel has a few favorite Christmas jokes too. Like the one that goes:

"A good friend of mine sent his girl friend this Christmas greeting: 'You are a dear, sweet and wonderful girl. May God bless you and keep you. I wish I could afford to.'"

Then there's that joke that Morey Amsterdam likes to tell around Christmastime:

"Just before Christmas a university student turned in an exam paper across which he had written: 'Only God knows the answers to these questions. Merry Christmas.' His professor's written reply was 'God gets an A. You got an F. Happy New Year.'"

Ah, yes. German fame may last as long as the stars shine because of their invention of the Christmas tree. There's a possibility, however, that the American Christmas joke may endure just as long.

SUBSTITUTED TRUSTEE'S NOTICE OF SALE

STATE OF MISSISSIPPI COUNTY OF HANCOCK

WHEREAS, on the 13th day of February, 1973, FLOYD C. WALTON executed a Deed of Trust to Russell Moore, III, for the benefit of Firstmark Financial Corporation, which is recorded in Book 177, Pages 870-871, Records of Mortgages and Deeds of Trust on Lands in Hancock County, Mississippi; and

WHEREAS, Walter J. Phillips substituted the undersigned Russell Moore, III, by instrument dated October 21, 1974, and recorded in Book 184, page 440, Records of Mortgages and Deeds of Trust on Lands in Hancock County, Mississippi; and

WHEREAS, default having been made in the payment of the indebtedness secured by said Deed of Trust, and Firstmark Financial Corporation, the holder of the note and Deed of Trust having requested the undersigned substituted trustee to do so, notice is hereby given that I will on Monday, January 13, 1975 offer for sale at public outcry and sell during the legal hours, between 11:00 A.M. and 4:00 P.M., at the front door of the County Courthouse of Hancock County, Mississippi, for cash to the highest and best bidder, the following described property situated in Hancock County, Mississippi, to-wit:

"Lots 8 and 9, Square 7, SHORELINE PARK NO. 6, Hancock County, Mississippi, as per plat or map of said Subdivision recorded in Book 21, Page 880, in the office of the Chancery Clerk of Hancock County, Mississippi.

Together with all and singular the rights, privileges, improvements and appurtenances to the same belonging or in any wise appertaining."

I will convey only such title as is vested in me as substituted trustee. ADVERTISED, POSTED, and DATED, this 17th day of December, A. D. 1974.

Walter J. Phillips
SUBSTITUTED TRUSTEE

SANTA SCHOOL

Where men are taught how to be Kris Kringle

By FRANK MACOMBER
Copley News Service

If you want to be a professional Santa Claus this year, you may have to go to school to qualify. Being a Kris Kringle isn't all just ho-ho-ing and wearing a pillow down your shirtfront.

Santa Clauses can earn an average of $100 a week during the two or three weeks before Christmas, provided they are approved by the school which turns them out. Nearly gone are the old days when an unemployed man just walked into a department store and said he wanted to be a Santa for a few weeks.

A generation ago it was no great shakes to land a Santa job. Today you don't need a diploma, but it helps.

Mrs. Janus Delehanty, assistant manager of Western Temporary Services, Inc., the largest supplier of Santas in the nation, says a screening is necessary before applicants are accepted for their Santa Claus Division.

"After interviews and a check of background, we decide whether the applicant would make a good Santa," she explains. "If he is accepted, he goes to school to learn what every good Kris Kringle should know."

The Santa schools are conducted in most large American cities and even extend to other countries. Along international borders, such as Canada and Mexico, Santa applicants must be bilingual, Mrs. Delehanty points out.

Make Your Move During Winter

EVANSVILLE, Ind.—Unless you like to follow the crowd, moving during the winter season can be a far more pleasant experience for you and your family than a traditional summertime move.

According to a survey conducted by Atlas Van Lines, 50 percent of those who move from one city to another during the year do so during the four months of May, June, July and August. The balance of intercity moves occur during the other eight months of the year—in fall, winter and spring.

Most families choose to move during the summer vacation months, the survey shows, so that children, they say, will not be "uprooted" from classes in one city and "dropped into the middle" of classes in another.

CHILD ADJUSTMENT
However, Atlas officials point to psychological studies indicating that children adjust better to their new surroundings if they can immediately enter a structured situation like school. Here they readily meet new friends, unlike the summer months when neighborhood children may be away at camp, on vacations, etc., and loneliness and "nothing to do" can plague them until the school year gets underway.

Families who move during the fall and winter months avoid the peak season when moving company schedules are crowded, equipment is being used to the maximum or may even be in short supply, and when pickup and delivery dates are harder for all movers to meet.

Along the eastern Canadian border, French is as common a language as English.

"There's no tuition fee for the school, once the applicant is accepted," Mrs. Delehanty says. "The Santas are paid a base salary, which averages out at about $100 a week. We contract with department stores, shopping centers and other commercial or civic enterprises in need of a Santa Claus."

At school, the applicant is given a manual listing the do's and don'ts of being a good, hearty Santa.

"For example," Mrs. Delehanty explains, "the applicant must learn how to apply makeup and put on his costume. We furnish the makeup and costume. He must learn how to react to the public and to the countless questions the kiddies will ask him all day long."

"He also must learn how to lift children onto his lap and put them down again so there are no backs or other bones broken."

A good, hearty belly laugh should be a stock in trade of the commercial Santa. And one of the chief don'ts, says Mrs. Delehanty, is tiptoeing on the job.

In the past some Santas have been known to become over-merry during occasional trips to the restroom between sessions with the moppets.

As for ho-ho-ing, Mrs. Delehanty says it's verboten now at most stores which hire Santas.

"The ho-ho-ho seems to scare small children and make them cry," she explains.

What happens if the labor market is so tight that not enough men apply for Santa Claus duty during the Yule holidays?

"Then we simply have to go out and recruit them," replies Mrs. Delehanty. "The same is true if the applicants lack the quality we demand for our Santas."

The Santa Claus class is an auditing course. No written test is required.

"Most applicants want to be a Santa Claus or they wouldn't volunteer," Mrs. Delehanty points out. "Sometimes, however, they find after a few hours with the kids that they don't enjoy it all that much. Some of them quit right in the middle of the holiday and we have to rush in a substitute Santa."

Western Temporary Services, Inc., is not only Santa-oriented. It contracts with firms and other organizations to furnish clerical help, key punch operators, even laborers, among other services.

Of course not all Santas are hired through organizations like Western. Some stores still recruit independently. But large department store chains and many shopping centers have found the most efficient way is to hire by contract through a special service.

Mrs. Delehanty says there's no strict age limits for Santa applicants.

"If they can qualify otherwise, we accept them from age 18 into their 60's," she says. "One of our best Santas worked for us every Christmas for 10 years and was 68 before he hung up his red and white suit and whiskers."

Some large stores use their own personnel to sit in for Santa. One department store personnel executive says she enlists the services of men in the automotive section at Christmas time, when automotive sales are slack.

What's it like to be a Santa Claus? George Parsons is 71 now and no longer active enough to bounce the kiddies on his knees at Yuletide. But he played Kris Kringle for years in stores across the country.

"In the old days we used to get about $5 a day to be Santa," he recalls. "If it was a busy day and we stayed overtime, the store threw in an extra couple of bucks."

"You have to like children to be a good Santa. Otherwise the kids sense you're not on their side. It's a pretty physical job, too, because you have to lift the youngsters on and off your lap all day. The mothers are watching closely to see you don't bang up their children. And they don't want you promising the kids too much. You have to tell the kids in pretty general terms what they're likely to get in their stockings. If you tie the parents down, say, to buying a pony for Junior, you can get in trouble."

Marine PFC Bobby M. Wells, whose wife Evelyn is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Juanita Wilson of 425 Citizen St., Bay St. Louis, Miss., graduated from recruit training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, San Diego.

Physical conditioning, discipline and teamwork are emphasized during Marine recruit training. Classes include instruction in close order drill, Marine Corps history, first aid, uniform regulations and military customs and courtesies.

LT. LEROY J. SWANIER
Marine Second Lieutenant LeRoy J. Swanier, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Swanier of 325 Fleitas Ave., Pass Christian, Miss., made his first solo flight in a Navy aircraft at Pensacola, Fla.

Soloing is a major step towards becoming a Marine Aviator.

RANDALL SHEFFIELD
Navy Airman Recruit Randall Sheffield of 1208 E. Canal St., Piquette, Miss., graduated from recruit training at the Naval Training Center, San Diego.

The training included instruction in seamanship, military regulations, fire fighting, close order drill, first aid and Navy history. You couldn't think of anything to send Mom and Dad for Christmas.

Then a light bulb glowed over your head. You would have a picture taken of your face and send that to the folks. So you had the photo made. Stuck it in the cheapest frame with glass you could find. Stuck that in an envelope and dropped it in the mailbox.

You didn't hear the glass break when it hit the bottom of the just-emptied box. On the trip home to Vermont the broken slivers of glass cut the photo up like a jigsaw puzzle.

On Christmas Day Mom and Dad excitedly open the envelope. After all it's the first thing they've gotten from you in three years. They find broken glass, a cut-up photograph and a note which reads: "Dear Mom and Dad, Merry Christmas! Happy New Year! This is a picture of my face."

Now the people at the federal bureaucracy's Consumer Product Information Center think it's a shame that your photo can't get across country in one piece.

So they are going to tell you how to wrap it. Follow these simple directions and Mom and Dad won't think you're a big klutz.

First, get some newspaper. Roll up sheets of it so they make long tubes. (Oh yes, read the newspaper first because it will be hard to read once you're done.) Make four of these rolls.

Second, take two of the rolls and wrap them around the picture so they make two bands. Then take two rolls and wrap them around in the other direction so they criss-cross the others. Tape them in place. This will protect the glass.

Third, scrounge around the back of stores until you find a corrugated cardboard box to put the photo in.

Fourth, tape the box. The government people say self-sticking tape with fibers running the length of it is best. Cloth pressure-sensitive tape is also good, they say.

Fifth, use strong cord to tie it all up. Make one or two loops around both the length and width of the box with knots at each intersection.

Sixth, (this is a toughie) mail the package. If you don't mail it, it will never get to Vermont no matter how well you wrap it.

Now if you have any other wrapping problems the government folks urge you to write for their booklet "How to Pack and Wrap Parcels for Mailing." It's about how to pack and wrap parcels for mailing.

It's available free (if you don't count your tax money that was spent writing and printing it) from Consumer Information, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

There is no street address because they don't have streets in Pueblo. But a government committee appointed in 1901 is working on it.

You didn't hear the glass break when it hit the bottom of the just-emptied box. On the trip home to Vermont the broken slivers of glass cut the photo up like a jigsaw puzzle.

On Christmas Day Mom and Dad excitedly open the envelope. After all it's the first thing they've gotten from you in three years.

They find broken glass, a cut-up photograph and a note which reads: "Dear Mom and Dad, Merry Christmas! Happy New Year! This is a picture of my face."

Now the people at the federal bureaucracy's Consumer Product Information Center think it's a shame that your photo can't get across country in one piece.

So they are going to tell you how to wrap it. Follow these simple directions and Mom and Dad won't think you're a big klutz.

First, get some newspaper. Roll up sheets of it so they make long tubes. (Oh yes, read the newspaper first because it will be hard to read once you're done.) Make four of these rolls.

Second, take two of the rolls and wrap them around the picture so they make two bands. Then take two rolls and wrap them around in the other direction so they criss-cross the others. Tape them in place. This will protect the glass.

Third, scrounge around the back of stores until you find a corrugated cardboard box to put the photo in.

Fourth, tape the box. The government people say self-sticking tape with fibers running the length of it is best. Cloth pressure-sensitive tape is also good, they say.

Fifth, use strong cord to tie it all up. Make one or two loops around both the length and width of the box with knots at each intersection.

Sixth, (this is a toughie) mail the package. If you don't mail it, it will never get to Vermont no matter how well you wrap it.

Now if you have any other wrapping problems the government folks urge you to write for their booklet "How to Pack and Wrap Parcels for Mailing." It's about how to pack and wrap parcels for mailing.

It's available free (if you don't count your tax money that was spent writing and printing it) from Consumer Information, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

There is no street address because they don't have streets in Pueblo. But a government committee appointed in 1901 is working on it.

How to make some bread bulbs

Start your own family tradition by making bread dough Christmas tree ornaments. You don't need to have impossible-to-find, old ice cream molds as Mrs. Ned Merritt has.

"You can get small chocolate candy molds which would be fun for the children," she says.

The recipe for the dough calls for four cups of unsifted flour, one cup salt and one and one-half cups water.

"Knead it thoroughly with your hands. Place the dough in a plastic bag to keep it moist."

"Before pressing it into the mold, knead a small piece of the dough until it has a smooth surface with no cracks."

"Flour the surface of the dough before putting it in the mold."

Mrs. Merritt found this makes it easy to get the dough out of the mold, and also gives the dough a slight sheen when baked.

After pressing the dough firmly into the mold, turn it out on a cutting board.

Using an Exacto knife or a sharp paring knife, trim off rough edges.

Then insert a small wire loop in the top of the ornament.

Bake at 300 degrees. Mrs. Merritt has to bake her large molds three to four hours, but for the small chocolate molds she suggests checking after one-half hour.

The dough should be a pale, golden brown, and sound "dry" when tapped with a fingernail.

Cool, then spray with a clear, high-gloss resin which is found in floral supply stores.

If you wish to paint the ornaments, use a fine-point felt pen before applying the resin.

Kept in a dry place they will last indefinitely.

1974-75 Bearcats

Harrison Central bombs Bearcats 99-52

The Long Beach Bearcats dropped its fourth game in a row and its seventh in nine starts when Harrison Central outscored them in every quarter en route to a 99-52 win Saturday. Robert Graham and Jerry Hoskins led the Red Rebels with 19 and 17 points respectively. Jimmy Nelson and Steve Simpson led the Bearcats scorers with 14 points apiece. In girls' play Harrison Central downed the Bearkittens 52-37.

The Bearcats next game will be Friday at Lumberton.

OLA wins, wins, wins, and loses

OLA's basketball teams had a successful week with three wins in their last four outings.

December 10 the Crescents travelled to Gulfport High and lost a close game to the Commodores 38-24. Paula Bradshaw of Gulfport was the game's high scorer with 21 points. High scorers for OLA were Linda Ladner with 9 and Tricia Shyiou with 6.

Last Friday OLA's senior high and junior high teams swept a basketball doubleheader from Coast Episcopal. The junior high team scored a convincing 27-6 win with Liz Holmes and Amy Hille leading the OLA scorers with seven and six points respectively. S. McNaire led the Coast scorers with 6 points. The senior high team squeezed out a hard-fought 27-26 win. Ann Johnson of Coast Episcopal led all scorers with 11 points, and Daren Swilley led the Crescent's scoring attack with 9.

Then Monday night the Crescents defeated Sacred Heart 48-23. Three OLA players scored in double figures—Linda Ladner, Tricia Shyiou, and Daren Swilley. Lyn Smith led the Sacred Heart Rebels with 10 points.

OLA's senior high team now has a record of 3-5, and the junior high holds a 1-2 record.

Lewis' 37 points carries Hawks over St. John, 83-74

Jack Lewis ripped the St. John Eagles for 37 points last Wednesday as Hancock North Central put away St. John 83-74 on the Eagles home court.

Lewis hit from all parts of the court to basket 17 field goals and also managed to bucket three from the free throw line. His shooting performance was one of the best this season in high school basketball on the coast.

For St. John it was a downward road to defeat. The Eagles carried a 24-14 opening quarter lead and held a 42-34 advantage at the intermission.

The Hawks closed the gap to four, 56-52, during the third eight minutes of play.

With Kerry Johnson fouling out late in the game and with Pat Prejean, Pat McNally and Kearney Bobinger each holding four penalties, the Hawks mounted a 31 point scoring effort in the final period.

Pat Prejean was the headliner for the Eagles with 24 points, Bobinger posted 19 and Johnson 18.

The Hancock North Central Hawkettes won the girls' game 68-23 with Natalie Malley leading the way with 18. Cheryl Johnson added 16 and Lanette Randall scored 10.

St. John, 6-1 overall, will play at East Central Friday evening.

Hancock North Central will begin competing in the Lumberton tournament Thursday.

Farve has led his team in scoring since joining the Tiger lineup full time against Ocean Springs, averaging over 20 points per game for the past five games. Farve scored 25 points against D'Iberville Monday to lead all scorers.

Whavers, the little dynamo of the Tigerettes, is a consistent floor leader and shooter and contributed 16 points in the Tigerette's winning effort over the D'Iberville girls Monday 49-32. The opposition often only catches a blur of the number 40 jersey as Whavers puts on a dazzling series of moves to the basket.

Mike Magee and Sandra Lyons are the first two cagers to share defensive player-of-the-week selections, while Arnold Fairconnetue and Margie Richardson were chosen for this week's hustle award.

TODAY Good Health & Long Life are Invaluable Christmas Gifts

When the Three Wise Men, led by the star, came from the Orient to worship at the Crib in Bethlehem, they brought with them gifts meant for a King. Along with gold and precious stones, they brought medicinal and aromatic herbs and spices (such as frankincense and myrrh) then numbered among the world's most treasured possessions.

It is clear from Biblical writings that the early Hebrews prized the "vegetable drugs" very highly and they had great respect for the physician and the physician's assistant; the apothecary (pharmacist).

Beginning with the Book of Exodus, the Bible makes mention of these two "health team" members and of the methods they used to heal the sick. Bandages, applications of oil and of oil mixed with wine, salves, poultices, roots and leaves were the tools the Biblical physician used in order to practice his profession.

Fortunately, times have changed since then. Today's physician can count on hundreds of useful drugs to help him in his fight against disease. And, thanks to modern research, under your Christmas Star there's an invisible gift . . . health and long life.

By F. M. Kyle, Jr.
Gulf Coast District Manager

During the holiday season, the telephone becomes a heart-warming link between friends and relatives . . . always ready with help in making plans, arranging for last-minute gifts, calling loved ones. All of us at South Central Bell take special pride in the way our telephone work provides a vital link between families and friends throughout the year. And, at this special time of year, we wish each of you all the joys of the holiday season.

This Christmas, as every Christmas, many of our Bell people will continue to work at their jobs to keep communications flowing smoothly. Operators will be at work to make sure your calls are speedily routed to their destination and service people will be on call to keep the network working well. During this peak calling time of the year, here are a few hints that can make your long distance Christmas calling easier and faster.

- Dial the call yourself wherever possible and take advantage of low One-Plus dialing rates.
- Call early during the holiday season to beat the Christmas Eve and Christmas Day rush.
- Dial your One-Plus calls when rates are low - on regular weekdays after 5 P.M., on Saturdays all day, and on Sundays before 5 P.M. Low evening rates apply all Christmas Day.
- If circuits are busy when you place your call, please wait a few minutes before trying again.
- To avoid possible delays, make a list of your numbers prior to Christmas Day. If you need out-of-state directory assistance, dial one plus the area code and 555-1212. For long distance numbers in Mississippi, dial one plus 555-1212.

Looking back over this year, many improvement and expansion projects have been completed throughout Mississippi. By the end of this year, over $109 million will have been spent in new construction projects around the state, bringing to $724 million the total invested to meet the communications needs of our Mississippi customers.

We look forward to more progress in '75 . . . continuing to expand and upgrade service in our area of the state . . . maintaining the quality of service all our customers have come to expect.

Kiln Jaycees present awards ceremony

KILN, MISSISSIPPI - The Kiln Jaycees honored members of the first Little League Teams ever organized in their community along with the team sponsors, community businessmen, school leaders, county officials and their own membership at a dinner and awards presentation held at Annunciation School Cafeteria December 6th.

The Jaycees, under the direction of President Ed Ruzicka organized and managed three teams that participated in the Harrison Hancock Athletic Association this year. The affair is the first of its type held under the auspices of the Jaycees and will be an annual event, expanding to recognize all outstanding individuals having an interest in youth development through athletics.

Following the dinner prepared by Jaycee Tommy Pavolini and served by the membership, Jaycee chaplain Father Bertin Glennon of Annunciation parish gave the invocation and Jaycee M. J. Necaise led the pledge of allegiance.

The parents, guests and players, approximately 150 strong, were welcomed by President Ruzicka, who introduced the Kiln Jaycee Officers for 1974-75 and thanked those present for their overwhelming acceptance of the Jaycee invitation.

Hancock North Central Coach Irvin Favre, who also coached the Gulfport American Legion team this year was the featured speaker. In his opening remarks, Coach Favre praised the success of the Little League program in the first year of management by the Jaycees and commended the parents, sponsors, school and county officials for supporting the program. Favre emphasized the importance of continued support for the upcoming season.

Hancock North Central,

Favre said, is one of the few schools not presently offering baseball to round out the available sports activities for children in the county. He encouraged parents to make a concerted effort to add baseball to the sports program at North Central. Favre noted numerous scholarships are available for outstanding baseball players as well as in the other sports.

AWARDS PRESENTATIONS

The awards presentation which followed included sponsors as well as distinguished service awards. Each was presented a framed certificate of appreciation and team picture. Sponsor awards were presented to the Quick and Grice Company, Picaune and Kiln Supermarket; C.N.S. Supplies, Kiln.

Special Assistance Awards were presented Parkers Grocery, Sam Haas, Jr., Hancock County Board of Supervisors, J. N. Travira and Annunciation School.

Distinguished Service Awards were presented by Robert G. Bilbo, C. J. Cameron, Philip R. Hoda, Bertin Glennon, Keith Hoda, M. J. Necaise, J. V. Haas and Larry L. Morrison and Ed Ruzicka. All were either coaches or managers of the three Kiln Little League Teams.

Honor certificates were presented to all players completing the Little League season including The Kiln Quick and Grice Cardinals, and players: Kendall Necaise, Timothy Cameron, Derrick Collier, Andrew Bennett, Philip R. Hoda, Jr., Darren Hoda, Michael Bilbo, Roy Mitchell, Norman Ladner, Ricky Mauffray, Vincent Halterlein, Gary Necaise, Neal Necaise, Jr., Christopher Whitfield, Kermit Ladner, Christopher Hoda, Robert Lyons and Regan Necaise.

The Kiln Supermarket Pirates: Quentin Hoda, Martin Comfort, Michael Necaise, Cletus Haas, Shannon Lyons, Harlan Bennett, Jr., Kieth Glass, Jeffery Hoda, Lonnie Haas, Roger Burleson, Kevin Haas, John Necaise, Todd Holden and Douglas Ladner.

Graduation Certificates signifying completion of Little League Play were presented to Harlan Ray Bennett, Jr. and Cletus Haas of the Kiln Pirates and Christopher Paul Halterlein, Eugene Bradley Brezeale, Jr., John Franklin Comfort, Jr., Morgan Patrick Ladner and David Barnett of the Kiln Athletics. These players will be trying out for Senior League in 1975.

All-Star Awards were presented to Michael Joseph

Necaise and Cletus Haas of the Kiln Supermarket Pirates by Manager Larry Morrison and Eugene Bradley Brezeale, Jr., and John Franklin Comfort, Jr., by Manager Ed Ruzicka on behalf of the Harrison Hancock Athletic Association and the Kiln Jaycees in recognition of their selection as the first all-stars selected from any Kiln Teams to play in the association's District Play-Offs in Bay St. Louis, Mississippi earlier this year. In two surprise presentations, President Ruzicka recognized Irving LaCoste as the recipient of the 1974 Outstanding Civic Contributions Award for his acute awareness of the needs of the community and his unselfish donations to the Jaycees to further their goal of youth recreation on the county level and Jaycee Larry L. Morrison as the recipient of the 1974 Outstanding Jaycee Award for his efforts in helping to reorganize the chapter and his contributions to the long range planning on the Youth Recreation Program adopted by the Jaycees.

Seems like cold fronts have been moving in regularly. Cold fronts are not bad unless they are accompanied by rain. The rains don't seem to last too long and there has been some good fishing weather. Speckles and red fish are still being caught. Along with fresh water fish.

Hunting has been fair to middling. Some quail have been killed but dove hunting has been the lean side. Seems like the doves haven't come South yet. A few rabbits and squirrel are always killed this time of the year.

Now that the snipe and woodcock seasons are open there should be some reports coming in on this type of hunting.

Regarding those making good catches of red fish Alden Mauffray and Perre Quintini brought home 32 last Sunday. They were caught mostly on Shad Rigs according to them.

As for other sports the Diamondhead Ladies Golf Association elected new officers for 1975 as follows: President-Gloria Forstall, Bay St. Louis; vice president-Char Hanson, Pass Christian; secretary-Joycelyn Treach, New Orleans; and treasurer-Marion Englehorn, Bay St. Louis. Ida Mae Snow is the new tournament chairman. She is at Diamondhead. The ladies golf association is a very active group.

The Senior Citizen's R.S.V.P. award party was held Friday at the American Legion Home in Waveland with over 200 people attending. The affair was under the supervision of Mildred Fisher, Director, Theresa James, Asst. Director and Joe Judaway, Driver of the R.S.V.P. station wagon. Awards were made to members of the organization, supper was served and dancing concluded the program. It was also a Christmas party and Santa Claus was on hand, giving presents to everyone.

Mr Wm. A. Hays, Director of Research for the Miss. Council on Aging was the guest speaker at the Senior Citizens luncheon on Friday. Bill is a fresh and salt water fisherman. He hails from Jackson and promised to come down and do some fishing with us.

Bob Bienvenu's hobby is gardening. Dancing is his favorite sport. Says he don't have time to fish. Still has to work.

Was a pleasure meeting Don Moore, president and General Mgr. of Radio Station WPUP. Don's main sports are fishing and golf. He said he doesn't have time to enjoy either. The time will come later, fellow.

Donald Mauffray, Senior Citizens Recreation Director for Hancock County likes fresh water fishing when he can go. He said his brother Woodrow (Poss) is the big fisherman of the family. He goes at least once a week and sometime more than that. Poss fishes our bayous and rivers, bringing home his share of the finny tribe.

Tigers snap D'Iberville 84-57

Tigerettes and coach Willie Bradley, 9-1 for the season, added D'Iberville to their list of victims Monday night as they downed scrappy D'Iberville team 84-57. The Bay High girls' only loss was to Harrison Central last Friday night.

After dropping a 91-49 game to the Harrison Central Red Rebels last Friday at Harrison Central, the Bay High Tigers came bounding back to destroy D'Iberville 84-57 before an appreciative Tiger home crowd. The win boosted the Tiger record to 7-3 for the early season.

It was the second loss for the D'Iberville Warriors at the hand of the Tigers who clipped them 74-69 in the Tigers' second game of the season.

Meanwhile the Bay high girls put together their ninth win of the season against only one loss with a 49-32 win over the D'Iberville girls. The Tigerettes under Coach Willie Bradley also lost to Harrison Central last Friday.

Forward Allison Farve continued his domination of Tiger scoring since returning to the Tiger lineup after an early season ankle injury with 25 points against D'Iberville to lead all scorers. Farve's points came on 12 field goals and one free throw.

Tiger guard Donald Lott added 20 points to follow Farve, while floor general Arnold Fairconnetue hit six field goals and three free throws for 15 points.

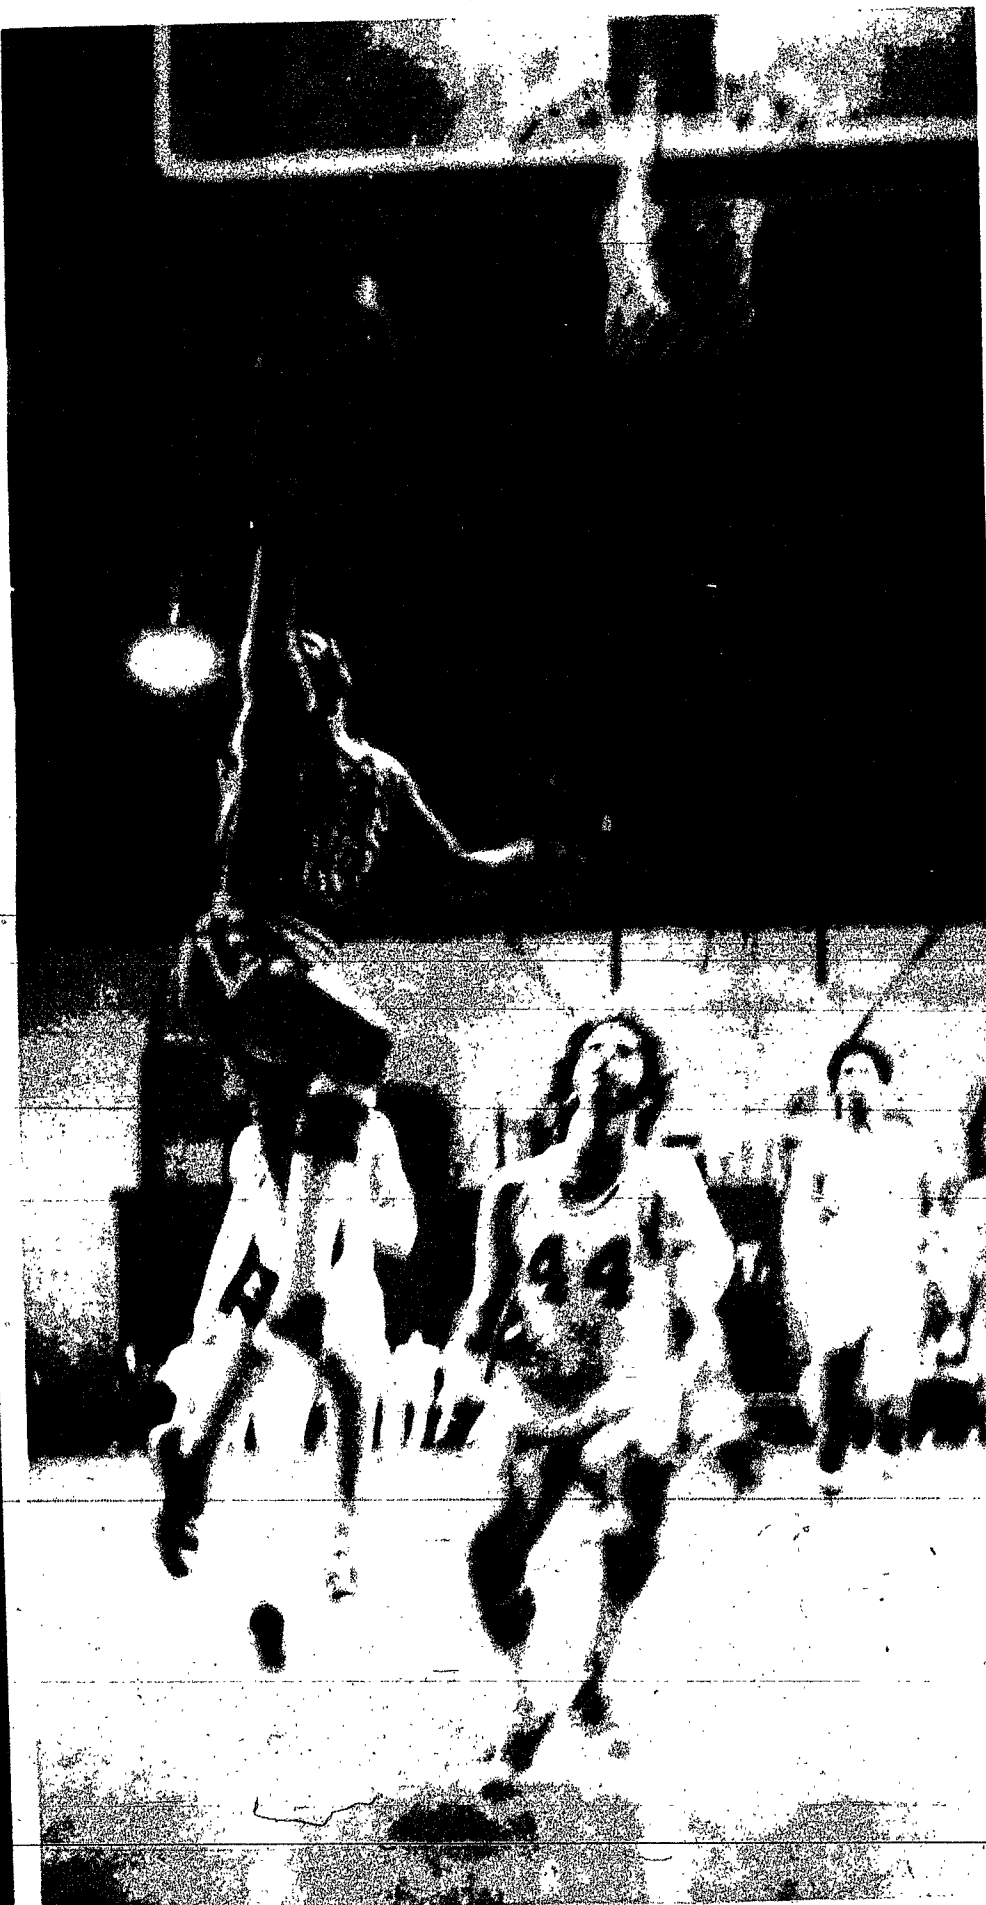

Perry Whavers and Cindy Stieffel hit for 16 and 12 points respectively to lead the Bay High girls over D'Iberville. Connie Payne added 10 and Sandra Lyons seven.

Friday the Tigers travel to Notre Dame in Biloxi where the girls play Sacred Heart and the boys take on the Rebels.

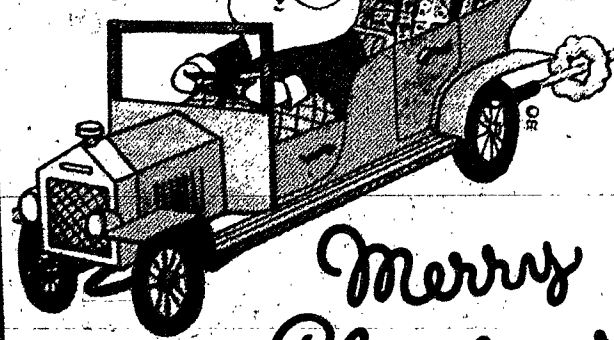

In junior high play the Bay St. Louis ninth graders beat Pass Christian 54-52 in overtime Monday night.

Mike Thompson was high scorer for Bay St. Louis with 32 points. Cullen Swanier had 24 and Greg Jeffries 10 for Pass Christian.

Bay St. Louis also won a ninth grade girls game 31-21, but Pass Christian won the seventh and eighth grade girls' game 19-16.

"Athletes vs. MS" Program Lends Muscle To War On Crippling Disease

Strong, straight, well-conditioned bodies matched in competitive skills have been with us since antiquity and are the inspiration for America's physical fitness program. This is the dramatic, attractive side of the coin. There is another side, however, and it concerns millions of unfortunates who cannot run, play or indulge in any sport because of the inroads of disease.

Multiple sclerosis is one of the diseases that puts people out of action and in wheelchairs — "cages of steel," to them. It is often called "the mysterious cripple of young adults."

Currently conducting its annual "Multiple Sclerosis Education Month" campaign to better acquaint the public with the serious dimensions of the illness, the Mississippi Chapter of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society calls attention to a unique Society project, "Athletes vs. MS," in which many young sports stars are setting a fine example by rallying to help those who have MS. The "Athletes vs. MS" project, according to Notre Dame football coach Ara Parseghian, Chairman of the Society's National Sports Committee and its 1974 MS Hope Chest Campaign Chairman, seeks to involve athletes at all levels — professional, collegiate, high school — in a program that will both bolster patient morale and the Society's research-patient service efforts.

"Our drive is unique," Parseghian says, "in that we have a growing Who's Who of athletes and sports organizations volunteering their services in support of a single cause in an organized program."

Parseghian himself is deeply involved in the MS fight, since three members of his family have been afflicted by it.

He notes that top figures from baseball, football, hockey, basketball, tennis, golf, boxing, soccer, auto racing and figure skating have all volunteered their names and energies toward aiding the Society. The list includes Billie Jean King, the tennis star; Hank Aaron, home run champion of the Atlanta Braves; Muhammad Ali, long-time leading heavyweight boxer; Tom Seaver, top pitcher of the New York mets; Lee Trevino, leading professional golfer; Janet Lynn, the ice skating champion; Brooks Robinson, of the Baltimore Orioles; Don Shula, head coach of the World Champion Miami Dolphins; John Havlicek, captain of the Boston Celtics, National Basketball Association Champions; Bobby Clarke, captain of the Stanley Cup champion Philadelphia Flyers hockey team; and Bobby, Al and Louie Unser (Louie has MS), the auto racing family — all of whom have donated their time to make TV or radio public service announcements for MS.

The National Multiple Sclerosis Society is the only national voluntary health agency supporting worldwide research on MS, a chronic, crippling disease that affects hundreds of thousands of Americans and millions more in other countries. Since its founding in 1946, the Society has allocated nearly $24 million for MS research and millions more for patient services.

Deer Headlighting Cases On The Increase

The Mississippi Game and Fish Commission reported this week that arrests for game law violations have increased dramatically over last year, with the number of deer headlighting cases this season already exceeding total convictions during the 1973-74 license year.

Attributing the increased number of arrests to the commission's "Report That Violator" campaign, Chief Law Enforcement Officer William Peavy called the program "a classic example of what public cooperation can do."

"People have started calling conservation officers when they hear shooting in the middle of the night," Peavy continued, "and their tips have resulted in dozens of arrests that would have been impossible to make without public support."

Sportmen who witness or learn of illegal hunting are urged to contact their local conservation officer or call the Game and Fish Commission law enforcement division at 354-7317. A directory of all conservation officers is available from the Public Relations Department, P. O. Box 451, Jackson, Mississippi 39205.

Spontaneous remissions are common in multiple sclerosis, the mysterious "cripple of young adults," but usually it is progressive, with a series of unpredictable attacks, each usually causing further disability.

Hunter Education Available

With an appropriation of $66,000 from the 1974 legislature, the Mississippi Firearm and Hunter Education Program was given final public acceptance by legislators and sportsmen. Today this program in Mississippi is ranked as one of the nation's top five hunter safety programs.

First organized in 1971 and assigned top priority by the Game and Fish Commission in 1972, the Firearm and Hunter Education Program, also known as Hunter Safety, is organized on a statewide level with the actual instruction being carried out by county 4-H youth, Game and Fish conservation officers and local citizens.

"These 4-H youth agents are the backbone of the safety training program," comments Terry Beckman, program administrator with the Game and Fish Commission.

"These agents, working under the leadership of Dr. W. M. Bost of the Cooperative Extension Service at Mississippi State University, have been most instrumental in supporting the program in every way. To date the agents are training about 80 percent of those students certified under the program. And that's a big number."

The big number of students that the Firearm and Hunter Education Program is training is due to "planning, hard work and support," according to State Conservation Director Avery Wood. "We have set our goal as being number one in the country while completely eliminating hunting fatalities and injuries."

Originally initiated in Mississippi as a token program to follow a trend set by other state conservation agencies, the program today in Mississippi has a budget of $150,000 and employs four full-time personnel and three part-time field employees.

During the month of October alone, the Hunter Education Program certified 922 students and appointed 14 new instructors. Since its beginning in 1971 nearly 24,000 students, under the leadership of 1,700 instructors, have been certified as safe hunters who proudly wear the orange patch signalling them as Mississippi Safe Hunters.

Since the program has been in operation, no gun accidents

The St. Stanislaus Rocks came alive in the final three periods of play Monday night to capture an 86-37 victory over the Notre Dame Rebels in high school basketball at Bay St. Louis.

Notre Dame, which took an early 23-10 first period lead, was unable to keep pace with the red-hot Rocks beginning with the second period when the Rocks dropped in 25 points to four for the Rebels to open up a 24-16 halftime lead.

Continuing to apply the pressure in the third period, St. Stanislaus moved to a 56-22 lead and moved easily to the win in the final stanza.

Robert Smith led the Rocks scoring with 21 points while Bud Lang added 18. Chuck Green 14 and Devin Brown 11.

Notre Dame with 18 and Stan Delinger collected 11.

Scientist tells whale of a story

Most freshwater anglers will settle for a 30-pound muskie and deep-sea fishermen for a 500-pound marlin, but when James G. Mead of Arlington, Va. goes looking for marine creatures he drives a six-ton flat-bed truck to bring back just one specimen of his quarry.

Mead, 30, is a marine mammalogist who roams the East Coast of the U. S. tracking down stranded whales. Most of the whales he finds are dead or dying, according to an article on "The Whale Chaser" in the current issue of NATIONAL WILDLIFE magazine, but he has rescued at least one whale and has brought the remains of many more back to his research laboratory by truck.

What does he want with dead whales?

Described by the National Wildlife Federation's magazine as "one of the world's few genuine whale experts," Mead's aim is "to piece together the whole story — past, present and future — of the whale along the nation's Atlantic Coast." In the process Mead has stripped to a skeleton a 45-foot, 30-ton Sei whale that foundered at Cap Island, South Carolina, in 1972. That one was too big to move.

He has also brought traffic in Washington, D. C., to a standstill by driving down the street with the flukes of a 22-foot, 5,000-pound finback whale trailing over the tailgate of his truck. That time the weather was so cold he didn't bother to embalm or refrigerate his find for the ride back from Cape Henlopen, Delaware.

Despite its size and colorful history, Mead points out, the whale "is the one group of mammals about which we know the least."

The bearded scientist, who is assistant curator of mammals for the Smithsonian Institution, gets his tips on beached whales from Coast Guardsmen, fishermen, and park attendants along the coast from Maine to South Carolina. If the stranded sea beast is less than a day's drive away, Mead and a hastily-assembled group of volunteers head for the scene.

When a beaching occurs more than a day's journey away, Mead advises his caller to remove dead specimens to the nearest cold storage plant. If the whales are still alive, Mead suggests they be covered with wet blankets and hosed down often to keep them cool.

Legal restrictions in the U. S. and Canada and growing worldwide sentiment against whaling have made it difficult to obtain live specimens even for scientific study. Mead therefore collects samples of vital organs from the dead whales, or sometimes performs a complete dissection at the beach site.

His studies have produced some valuable findings. It has been known that whales communicate by means of acoustic soundings. In the past, claims have been made that they could hear soundings for distances up to thousands of miles. Mead agrees that this is theoretically possible, but due to other underwater noises — including ship propellers, which are the same frequency as the whale — he postulates that the effective range of communication is closer to 100 miles.

Mead also discovered a parasitic roundworm that had embedded itself in the middle ears and sinus passages of a group of 35 pilot whales beached at Kiawah Island, South Carolina. Charlie Potter, his assistant, found the same parasites infecting the heads and ears of dolphins that had washed ashore at Cape Cod. Mead and Potter have since theorized that the worms disrupted the mammals' natural "sonar" or navigational systems.

Mead disrupted the routine at a roadside restaurant the day he trucked that 5,000-pound finback from the Delaware shore to Washington.

"A guy came in and asked who owned the big fish in the parking lot?" he recalls. "When I spoke up he told me: 'You gotta stay here till I get my old woman. She'll never believe it unless she sees it.'"

SPORTSMAN-OF-THE-WEEK

Neal Richard hails from the Cajun country of Louisiana. He has hunted and fished all his life and is good at both sports. He spends plenty of time fishing in our neck of the woods and is a real sport.

lately. Won't say where his secret spot is. Try a little "Old Crow" on him.

A. J. Butz retired from the Coast Guard was an ardent fisherman. Can't go like he used to, but still loves it. Remember A. J. everything comes to him who waits, even whiskers.

Sorry to report the death of Robert Carland (Manny) Hubbard, Jr. recently. Manny was a likable fellow and fisherman. Symaphy is extended to his family.

Had a letter from Dr. Emile A. Bertucci, Jr. Like most folks he has been too busy to go fishing lately. Wants to though. He is one of the best. Does casting mostly. Still gets to Tidewater at Fenton frequently.

Most of the oysters being gotten are of the small size. Even small they are salty and have a good flavor. Of course they are getting to be a luxury at the prices charged.

Oystermen have to live too. Fishermen who can get to the marsh know where the big oysters are. Smart fellows.

Catching red fish on a shad rig with either shrimp or minnows nowadays is something. We used to catch them with dead shrimp or mashed up crabs. Things do change, don't they?

Perre Quintini was out after red fish Sunday. Perre was doing pretty good when we saw him. Only had two but had just started. He catches his share of red fish and knows how. Home from the service he is retired and does a lot of fishing. An expert at fly fishing, too.

One way to keep warm on cold days when fishing or hunting is to take a thermos jug of hot soup. Nothing more warming.

Don't forget the Bay-Waveland Gun and Rod Club Christmas Social; Friday night, December 20th. Starts at 9:00 p.m. make plans to attend for the success of this social will depend on your presence. Place: American Legion Home. If you are not a member of the club you should join. A bunch of real sports make up the membership.

Catching minnows for bait is a lot of fun and saves money. All ditches and culverts are full to them. A minnow trap is all that is needed to get them. Red fish are being caught on minnows at this time.

FRUSTRATED WHEN YOU CONTINUALLY DIAL A TELEPHONE NUMBER AND THE LINE IS CONSTANTLY BUSY? ONE GOOD ANSWER IS TO PUT OFF DIALING AGAIN FOR FIVE OR TEN MINUTES WHILE YOU SAVOR THE FLAVOR OF A RELAXING CUP OF HOT TEA. IT'S A SURE WAY OF AVOIDING A HANG-UP.

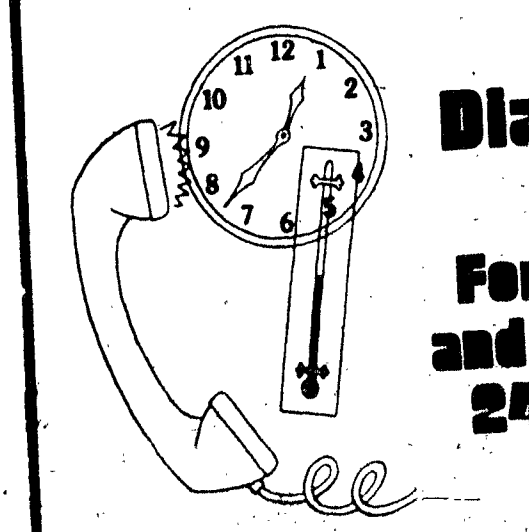

Whatever else is lost among the years Let us keep Christmas - its meaning never ends

Whatever doubts assail us, or what fears - Let us hold close this day - remembering friends
